Persuade Hurried Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States has persuaded three Asian allies to lend South Vietnam U.S.-supplied F5 fighter planes for a hurry-up buildup of the South Vietnamese air force, the Pentagon

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W Friedheim said Iran, Taiwan and South Korea have agreed to supply these planes from their inventories and that some deliveries are already under way.

The F5 is in short supply in the United States and for this reason U.S. officials over the past few days had approached several countries to work out some sort of barter arrangement.

Friedheim did not say how the U.S.

would replace these aircraft but indicated this could be with newer F5s in the future or possibly even more sophisticated F4 Phantom fighters.

The F5 is a relatively simplified jet fighter designed specifically for use by America's allies. Its primary role is air

Since the proposed Vietnamese peace settlement was disclosed last week, the United States has been rushing to supply South Vietnam with additional aircraft along with artillery and armored equipment in advance of a cease-fire.

In addition to the F5s, South Vietnam is being supplied with C130 transports, helicopters, A37 jet close-support fighters and A1 prop-driven fighters.

Friedheim acknowledged for the first time today that the C130, a four-engine aircraft, was being delivered to South Vietnam. The planes, he said, will be taken from National Guard and Reserve units in the United States.

He refused to discuss numbers but sources both in Washington and Saigon said South Vietnam will receive about 30 of the C130s. These planes began arriving

The South Vietnamese air force never before has received these planes, although they have served as U.S. tactical transports for about a decade.

Nixon Asks Plan Help

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon today appealed for support for his national health insurance program, while attacking George Mc-Govern's proposals. And McGovern again attacked U.S. presence in the Vietnam war.

In a paid political radio broadcast, Nixon charged that McGovern seeks a federalized medical system that would be too costly and would bring lower quality health care.

Then the President departed on a campaign trip taking him to Chicago, Tulsa, Okla., and Providence, R.I.

McGovern was campaigning in Grand Rapids, Mich., where he declared the Vietnam war marked "the time in our national history that we have been caught up in a cause that we are no longer willing to die for, but are willing to kill for.'

Earlier, Nixon had said North Vietnam will watch Tuesday's presidential election to find out whether Americans want 'peace with honor or peace with surrender.'

Democratic challenger George McGovern, who has based his White House bid on opposition to the Vietnam war, said Nixon's comments on television made him 'highly skeptical about whether the Nixon administration will ever bring peace."

Both Nixon's prime-time TV address Thursday evening and the Democratic response indicate the Vietnam war is still a major campaign issue, one week after the White House reported progress in peace negotiations and said "peace is at hand."

In his first prime-time TV address of the campaign, Nixon said the United States will agree on a Vietnam settlement "when the agreement is right- not one day

The President added: "We are not going to allow an election deadline or any other kind of deadline to force us into an agreement which would be only a temporary truce and not a lasting peace." McGovern told television viewers in Michigan that Nixon's claim that certain details need to be worked out means that the Vietnam negotiations "are not going well at all.'

McGovern hurriedly booked a 30-minute broadcast on CBS at 10:30 p.m. EST tonight to give a fuller response to the President. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew also took up the subject of peace negotiations as he campaigned in the West. The vice president said McGovern has "meddled around with foreign policy" the way no other presidential candidate has in the history of the United States. "I want to remind you that at the very time we were in the process of negotiating a peace he has offered to renegotiate that peace and give away everything we've obtained at the bargaining table, through the sacrifice of 56,000 American men and countless wounded.

"I think that's reprehensible," Agnew said at a Cheyenne, Wyo., high school.

McGovern had said last week that, if elected, he would respect the terms of any agreement made during the Nixon administration. But he added he would reserve the right to try to change any provision for continued military aid to the present South Vietnamese government.

The Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Sargent Shriver, said the President's election-eve peace effort has

Missionary Recalls Terrifying Ordeal

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) - "We got up at 5 o'clock on Saturday and were doing our devotions when we heard a short burst of automatic fire.

"It was quite close."

Thus began a day of terror for Wesley Chopard, 49, of Des Moines, Iowa; his wife Emma; and four other missionaries of the Christian Missions in Many Lands, as Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese forces moved into the small town of Kengkok in southern Laos.

Chopard, his wife and seven Filipinos escaped. Two charred bodies believed to be those of Evelyn Anderson, 25, of Quincy, Mich.; and Beatrice Kosin, 35, of Fort Washakie, Wyo., were found in the ruins of a burned-out house in the town Thursday, their hands bound.

Samuel Mattix, 19, of Cantralia, Wash.; and Lloyd Oppel, 20, of British Columbia, were taken prisoner and are still missing.

"We had heard firing before and believed it was the Lao Army firing for fun or at the moon or to chase spirits away," said Chopard, who has spent 15 years as a missionary in Laos.

"Just before 6 o'clock two of four Lao Christians called us from the road to alert us that insurgent forces were in the town. "We sent one of them to get the girls from their house further away

"There is a big lagoon beside our house and the Laos suggested we escape to the trees on the other side. Our neighbor paddled us across in a canoe and we hid in the first line of trees.

"Before we left, we had one of our men go and alert the seven Filipinos at the Operation Brotherhood Hospital because they had a radio and could call for help.'

Chopard learned from his Lao congregation that the North Vietnamese soldiers passed the house of Mattix and Oppel on their way into town but made no attempt to enter and seize them.

The two missionaries, one a carpenter who had just finished building a small schoolhouse, jumped in their truck and headed for Chopard's house on the other side of town.

At the main intersection, they were stopped by a burst of machine-gun fire across the front of their vehicle.

They were bound and taken away to an audience with a higher commander,'

Chopard said

We don't know what happened to the girls. Some reports said they died in their attack but we don't know.

Chopard said he was 90 per cent sure the bodies found were the missing women. An American doctor who examined them Thursday said they were too badly burned to be identified but that they belonged to Caucasian females of the same physical build a Miss Anderson and Miss Kosin. The bodies were sent to Bangkok for an

Although both bodies had their hands bound and both women appeared to have died before they were burned, Chopard does not think they were executed.

It appeared they might have suffocated when the house was set afire during fighting for the town, and being bound they could not escape Chopard and his wife linked up with the Filipinos and were rescued by an Air American helicopter later Saturday morn-

Won't File Charges On Former Officer

The Pettis County prosecuting attorney's office will not file felony charges against former Sedalia policeman Darrell Burris, assistant prosecuting attorney Gary Fleming said Friday

"Our investigation at the moment is closed, but that is not to bar the fact that something may come up to reopen the investigation," Fleming said

Thursday prosecuting attorney Adam Fischer told The Democrat-Capital that his department would conduct an investigation to determine whether state charges would be filed against Burris who, according to police, admitted taking $88 from a cash box at the police station recently.

Burris resigned from the force Oct. 13. Police said the alleged theft occurred Oct.

Fleming said he, Fischer and Sedalia Police Chief William Miller met late Thursday afternoon to determine whether the state charges would be filed against Burris. Fischer was not available for comment Friday

Fleming said that after talking with Miller, he and Fischer agreed, "there was insufficient admissible evidence to warrant filing charges.'

One reliable source told The Democrat-Capital that Burris apparently was not read his rights by police prior to his admission of

It was reported that the former officer would not admit his role in the incident until after this promise was given. The source also said it was his understanding that "the police made the decision to be rid of an undesirable officer. I think this was a good thing to do," he added. Thursday Fischer said his office should have been called into the investigation because a felony was reported. Fischer said his office knew nothing of the alleged theft until the report appeared in The Democrat-Capital.

Fleming said, "Chief Miller indicated he had not notified us because he primarily considered the matter an internal affair. He was most concerned with maintaining a high quality police force. After the discussion we all agreed that in the future it would be best to discuss with this office such matters which might lead to state charges.

City Prosecutor Robert Liston said Friday he also knew nothing of the alleged theft until he "read about it in the paper."

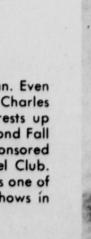

Liston said he should have been notified of the alleged theft because "if for no other

The second in a series of sermons based on Parables of the Prodigal Son will be delivered by the Rev. Eugene Trice, pastor of Epworth United Methodist Church, this Sunday morning.

The title of the sermon is "Spiritual Stepchildren."

The Gospel Tones Quartet of Bettendorf, Iowa, will present a concert of Gospel music at the Parkview Christian Church from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

This is a return engagement for the quartet, who appeared at the church about a year ago. The Rev. Ray Gipson, pastor of the church, has invited the SWEET SPRINGS - The Rev. Walter C. Loeber, director of public relations of St. Paul's College, Concordia, will be the guest speaker at Immanuel Lutheran Church here Sunday. The sermon topic is "Preparing for Excitement," based on Ephesians 4:11-12.

A worship service, with Holy Communion, will be held at 8 a.m. and a second service is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. The Sunday school, for all age levels, is at 9:15 a.m., the same time for junior and adult Bible

At Church Here

Special music will be featured at the Church of the Open Bible Sunday. The program begins at 10 a.m. and features the Florence Family Singers, El Reno, Okla. The group consists of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Florence and their two sons, Jerry and Bob. Their presentation here will include standard Gospel music as well as old hymns and contemporary sounds. Pastor Phil E. Newell said of the group, "They have a unique way of weaving the Scriptures together with the songs they sing to form a very effective 'Sermon in

Apple Is Given New Role

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The forbidden "apple," that storied old lure to human sin, got a new, honored place at a worship service here — as the fruit of freedom Church women dreamed up the idea, and celebrated it. They also communed by sipping apple juice. And they joined in affirming the "liberation of apples.

Declaring they rejected man's traditional interpretation" of the Adam and Eve story, the congregation of Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopal, United Church and various other Protestant women chanted in un-

'We affirm that it does not convey truth to us about apples, and certainly not about ourselves. We hold that Eve performed the first free act."

'A h-woman," someone added, instead of the usual 'Ah-men.'

The ecumenical "sister-celebration," held at the Washington Square Methodist Church here last Sunday, was part of a spreading women's crusade for fuller rights in church affairs.

It came on "Reformation Sunday," once a day to memorialize the Protestant break from Roman Catholicism but now a day for unifying activities. There were varied women's tactics around the country to bolster their case for equal status in American

In some cities, women tacked their theses on church doors in imitation of 16th century reformer Martin Luther.

We as women feel it is time that the church repent of sexism and be reformed," said the Rev. Barbara W. McCall of New York, executive of the United Church Task Force on Women which sponsored the serv-

It began with readings of the Genesis account of humanity's creation and "fall," the first defiance of God as portrayed by the eating of forbidden fruit — on Eve's initiative. Actually, the story never mentions a mere elaboration of folk lore.

"We were told that we were agents of evil, corrupters of perfect creation," intoned the leader, the Rev. Tilda Norberg, of Staten Island, N.Y.

Chorused the female worshippers: "We fell for all that."

"We were told that we were subordinate beings, derived from man, not uniquely created," the leader said, and the worshippers responded:

"We fell for all that ... We confess that we bowed down to that old ideology..." But they vowed to seek "the liberation of the whole human family and all creation." To clarify their own interpretation of Genesis, they added a supplemental so-called 'new myth" about a woman, Lilith, first created with Adam. He complained about her insistence on equality. As a result, the account

Patriotism Is Theme Of Cantata

Carrying out the American democratic processes of freedom of choice for political candidates, the First Baptist Church Sanctuary Choir will present a patriotic cantata at 7:10 p.m. Sunday, at the church.

Under the direction of Raymond G. Hall, director of the choir, the cantata, called "In God We Trust," will feature 40 voices as a choral group, four soloists and one narrator.

One of the most unique phases of the program is the fact that the sanctuary choir will be accompanied by an instrumental sound track with a full orchestra in the background. The timing and coordination under this arrangement has required many hours of practice. Clark and Jim Baker engineered the electronic

Vocal soloists include Patty McLaughlin, Charlotte Parker, Sallie Fisher and Jim Edwards. John Rufenacht will be the narrator. The individual numbers will include, "Star Spangle Banner," "In God We Trust," "People Everywhere Need People," "There's One Solution," "The Heart of America," "We Need Love," and "My Prayer for America."

Folk Musical Is Planned By Church

The primary, junior and junior high departments of the Church of the Nazarene will present the folk musical "The Boy Who Caught the Fish" at 7 p.m. Sunday at the church.

Written by Jack Coleman, the musical will be directed by Terry Colflesh, a member of the church's senior high department. The public is invited.

On Radio Program

The "Morning Devotions" program at radio station KDRO next week will feature the Rev Medford Speaker.

The program is aired daily at 8:45 a.m.

Trudeau Says He Won't Quit

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said Thursday night he won't quit despite the tie vote in Canada's general election, and the leader of the New Democratic party pledged the support Trudeau needs for a majority in the House of Commons.

Trudeau told a televised news conference he would ask Gov.Gen. Roland Michener to call Parliament into session as soon as possible so his Liberal government could determine its fate with a vote of confidence in Commons.

The prime minister said the House cannot meet before the end of the first week in December. Some political observers said it may not convene until January because of recounts scheduled in at least six districts.

If Trudeau lost the vote of confidence, he would have to resign, and Conservative party leader Robert Stanfield would be asked to form a government. But David Lewis, the leader of the New Democrats, assured Trudeau's survival when he pledged his support to the Liberals so long as they do not introduce legislation his mildly socialist party can't accept.

With the 30 New Democrats and his own party's 109 members, Trudeau would have a safe, 14-vote majority in the 264-member Commons

Lewis, in announcing his support for Trudeau, called for legislation to deal effectively with unemployment and the high cost of living and for "much more effective legislation to limit foreign ownership" of Canadian business and

The lineup in the House of Commons so far is Liberals and Conservatives, 109 each; New Democrats, 30; Social Credit Party, 14, and independents, 2.

Until Thursday afternoon, three days after the election, the Liberals had one seat less than the Conservatives, but an official recount in a Quebec district took a seat away from the Social Credit party and gave it to Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin by Stanfield sharply criticized Trudeau's decision, saying it showed "the arrogant desire of his government to hang on to power. He is treating the election result as simply another opinion poll in the hope he can somehow get away with it.'

Trudeau acknowledged that his party's showing "reflected the view of a good many Canadians that the government . has not been very satisfactory.

Urges Halt On Financing Surveillance

WASHINGTON (AP) - A study sponsored by the National Urban Coalition calls for a moratorium on federal financing of police surveillance programs and computerized data banks until safeguards are developed to protect citizens against invasion of privacy.

The study said a neutral scientific body should set forth "the policy options facing the nation in regard to such systems."

If the systems are found to be justified, Congress should enact legislation "creating an affirmative right to privacy, which would require the government to justify in advance any activity which would conflict with that right," the study said.

The recommendation was part of an extensive and highly critical examination of the activities of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which was established in 1968 to coordinate a federal block grant program to help communities combat street crime

A draft copy of the study, obtained Thursday by The Associated Press, will be released shortly by the Urban Coalition, an association of business, civic, and city government officials.

The study said that LEAA has failed to improve understanding of the problem of crime or to promote better ways of dealing with it. LEAA has "neither led the way for the states or held the states to strict performance standards," it said.

Bombers Attacking Communist Targets

SAIGON (AP) - More than 100 U.S. B52 bombers ranged across North and South Vietnam and Laos today attacking Communist war stockpiles. Communist forces showed no letup in their attacks in South Vietnam, with more than 100 reported for the ninth successive day.

The B52s dumped 2,500 tons of bombs at targets in the southern half of North Vietnam, along the Ho Chi Minh supply network in Laos, and in all four military regions of South Vietnam.

About two-thirds of the raids were in the central highlands and the provinces north and south of Saigon. The Communist command has intensified its attacks in both regions in recent weeks.

A dozen of the B52 raids struck at North Vietnamese troop positions a mile to two miles northwest of the air field at the Duc Co border camp in the central highlands which was overrun Thursday.

The U.S. Command also reported that American fighter-bombers flew about 140 strikes in the southern panhandle of North Vietnam Thursday.

A bombing half remained in effect above the 20th parallel keeping American warplanes away from the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex.

Fighting erupted anew this morning in rubber plantations just to the northeast of the once besieged provincial capital of An Loc. 60 miles north of Saigon.

Sharp fighting also was reported only four miles west of Pleiku City the capital of the central highlands. The Saigon command said Communist troops attacked a village defended by militiamen and killed eight and wounded 13 South Vietnamese soldiers.

The Saigon command said there were 117 enemy attacks, 85 of them by shelling, during the 24 hour period ending at dawn

The U.S. Command announced that search and rescue teams had recovered the bodies of 17 of the 22 Americans killed Tuesday in the crash of a U.S. helicopter in the Mekong Delta 35 miles southwest of A Command spokesman said positive

Stereo Tapes, Food Items Are Stolen

Four thefts, or attempted thefts of stereo tape players from parked cars and other thefts were reported to Sedalia police

Dennis Gene Madole, Windsor, said a tape player valued at $50 and a tape valued at $5 were taken from his car at 10:30 p.m. Thursday while the vehicle was parked at the State Fair Community College parking

A tape player valued at $70 and a green winter coat were reported stolen about 9:28 p.m. from a car owned by Lawrence O. Hunt, 1315 East 19th. The car was reportedly parked at Massachusetts and Broadway. Hunt said he later recovered the tape player.

Steven Balke Lee, 900 East 19th. reported damage to the wing glass on his automobile and to a tape player inside the vehicle at 9 p.m. Thursday while the car was parked at the State Fair Shopping Center parking lot.

Two cases of frozen beef patties valued at $72 and two cases of french fries valued at $10.54 were reported taken from Griff's Burger Bar, Broadway and Massachusetts, early Thursday. Dorsey Martin, manager, said thieves obtained the food by breaking a lock on a freezer. Damage to the freezer was listed at $30.

Jess Hoch, 1222 East Seventh, told police a car battery valued at $30 and two cables valued at $6.50 were stolen from his vehicle Thursday while the car was parked at the 100 block of West Pacific.

About $4 to $5 in coins were reported taken from the Neth Burus residence, 1611 South Kentucky, between 12:30 and 5:30 p.m. Thursday. Burus told police his residence had been ransacked.

Two statues valued at $35 were reported stolen Tuesday night from the Mrs. J.V. Curry residence, 2408 South Margaret. The statues were on the front lawn, police reports stated.

Sedalia Man Hurt In One-Car Crash

James Lee Crum, Route 5, Sedalia, was listed in good condition in Bothwell Hospital Friday morning following a onecar accident Thursday night at the intersection of Highway 65 and Route HH.

The accident occurred at 8:15 p.m. Thursday when the eastbound auto, driven by Donald Lee Wombles, also of Route 5, went out of control on a curve and skidded 160 feet before striking a utility pole.

Crum, a passenger in the car, suffered fractured ribs and possible injuries to his kidneys, spleen and liver. The driver of the car was not injured.

of Labor Statistics figured it as a rise

The bureau also reported that average earnings of some 50 million rank-and-file workers remained virtually unchanged at $3.73 a hour and $139.13 a week.

It said the average weekly paycheck was up $9.63 or 7.4 per cent over the past year, more than double the 3.3 per cent inflation in living costs over the same period.

Unemployment among men rose slightly from 3.8 to 3.9 per cent for a total of 1.6 million; the rate for women edged up from 5.4 to 5.5 per cent with a total of 1.7 million. The jobless rate for teenagers declined from 16.5 to 15.3 per cent with a total of 1.1 million.

Unemployment among white workers remained unchanged at 5 per cent, while the rate for non-whites-mostly Negroesinched down from 10.2 to 10.1 per cent, the bureau said.

The bureau said the rise in employment continued a steady climb that began in 1971 and was 2.7 million higher than a year ago.

Election Forecasts Are Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Communications Commission says it cannot legally ask radio and television networks to hold up broadcasting national-election projections until the polls close in the Far West.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan asked the FCC Thursday to 'use its good offices to get all segments of the broadcast industry together" to work out a way to postpone election predictions.

Saying that projections of winners cause some potential voters to stay home, Reagan appealed also to NBC, CBS, ABC, Mutual, the Associated Press and United Press International.

The FCC said in a telegram to Reagan that it would be inappropriate under the 1934 Communication Act for the FCC to intervene "directly or indirectly ... officially or unofficially.

Because the law prohibits censorship of radio broadcasts, the FCC said it refrains from "attempting to interfere in the exercise of news judgment by licensees and from intervening in the area of broadcast presentation in any way.'

West Coast voters in the past have heard broadcast predictions based on early returns from the East Coast hours before their own polls closed.

Network spokesmen disagreed with Reagan.

Richard S. Salant, CBS news president, said there was no indication that prospective voters stayed home even though election winners had apparently been decided before they voted

Arrested At School Disorder

CHARLESTON, Mo. (AP) -Four persons, two of them students, were arrested during a demonstration Thursday at the Charleston High School and charged with obstructing the use of public property.

The demonstration was staged by some 250 pupils and parents in protest against the school's action earlier this week in suspending 151 of the school's 800 pupils. The principal of the school said the demonstration and events leading to it were the outgrowth of "insubordination

on the part of some students who disrupted the normal processes of school. He said the pupils were suspended for periods ranging from three-to-six days for participating in sit-in demonstrations last week and again on Monday. Classes were suspended Wednesday when a large group of parents and pupils gathered in the school lobby to protest the school's action. School was reopened Thursday, but the doors were locked and pupils were admitted only if their names did not appear on the list of suspensions. Demonstrators were kept outside the school building. The sit-ins were reported to be protests against the school's policy of suspending pupils for periods of up to 10 days when they were repeatedly late for classes.

"It is completely unfair," said Mrs. Ardell Straughter. the mother of one youngster who was suspended. "All we want is our kids back in school. That's what we're paying our taxes for," she said. The Rev. James Webb, a spokesman for the demonstrators and one of the four arrested Thursday, said he understood the school's problem with tardy students but added that he felt the suspensions were too severe.

Small Bond Edge In County Poll

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Christopher "Kit" Bond holds a slight edge over his opponent in St. Louis County, but the lead is overshadowed by a wide margin for Edward L. Dowd, the Democratic candidate, in the city of St. Louis, a poll conducted by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Kansas City Star showed Thursday night.

Dowd should carry the St. Louis metropolitan area by about 20,000 to 25,000 votes the poll said.

'Interracial Fellowship' Services Planned Here

The annual "interracial fellowship" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Ward Memorial Baptist Church, Osage and Pettis, according to the Rev. J. E. Erickson, pastor.

"Baptists in the west central area of the state will have an unusual opportunity to participate in and enjoy an outstanding program and Christian fellowship," Mr. Erickson said of the event.

Program participants include the Rev. Charles D. Butler, pastor of Hanley Hills Baptist Church, St. Louis. Special music will be presented by a national Baptist group and a quartet from Bolivar known as "The Esquires.'

Bay ists in the following

Following the program, refreshments will be served.

Grambling 'Quiet'

GRAMBLING, La. (AP) -Grambling College is reported quiet today after an outbreak of window smashing put the National Guard on standby alert.

Adj. Gen. O. J. Daigle and Col. Donald Thibodaux, commander of the state police, flew here to make a personal survey of the situation at the predominantly black school.

State police units from nearby cities moved onto the campus Thursday night after students began throwing bottles through windows and mattresses in a girls' dormitory were set afire.

Two National Guard units in were put on standby alert. and could be put into effect.

State police units were housed in the National Guard armory in Ruston during the night.

Mayor B. T. Woodard said about 50 students started throwing the bottles Thursday night for no apparent reason.

Earlier in the day, students held a peaceful demonstration and presented a list of grievances to Grambling President Ralph Waldo Emerson Jones. The list included demands for more voice in school affairs, 24hour telephone switchboard service and better medical facilities. Dr. Jones said many of Ruston, six miles east of here, the grievances were legitimate

The consensus of opinion was uncertainty, averaged out from two broad positions - one, that it won't have any impact because the "peace dividend" has already been spent; two, that the impact will be greater than anticipated.

Uncertainty invariably produces a neutral or falling market. Investors dislike the unknown and demonstrate their dislike by disdaining further financial commitments or, if their feelings are stronger, by selling off.

But now, a week after the report that "peace is at hand," the consensus appears to be

Argus bases the theory on what it believes are the realities of 1972 and the emergence of a new America.

We believe this is one of those junctures in history when a fundamental change in social and economic trends is in prospect," it states. "And we believe that these changes bode well for the future of the American economy

In brief, this is its contention: Economic historians have frequently said that periods of sustained economic growth are associated with the exploitation of new economic frontiers. Most famous of these was the geographic frontier of the American West. That was in the 19th century. Since then there have been other economic frontiers, less visible to the casual observer but clearly measurable by their impact. Among them:

-The scientific advances that led to rapid growth in electric utilities and the automobile during the 1920s, which in turn produced enormous social

-The development and redevelopment of the European and Japanese economies that spurred trade and investment during the 1950s and 1960s.

Argus doesn't mention them. but there were others too: World War II itself, and the successful entry into space, if not the exploitation of it.

Now, Argus maintains, the present American foreign policy of growing trade involvement with Communist nations "is a new international economic frontier.

The direct effects are likely to be minor for several years, Argus feels. "But, given the Sino-Russian interest in improving consumption standards. trade will grow in the longer

In effect, it says that the economic frontier that once was the American West has now moved to Russia, China and Southeast Asia. And among the beneficiaries will be capitalist stocks.

Election Program For Kids

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - This Saturday, CBS News is televising a pretty childish show on how this nation elects its president, Congress, governors and assorted state and local politicos.

Why is it childish? The main reason is that it's strictly for children. It lasts 29 minutes, is called "What's An Election All About" and starts at 12:30 p.m.

No matter that it's just for kids. The ancients also should watch it. Particularly the 18year-old ancients who next Tuesday vote in a presidential election for the first time in U.S. history.

The show, narrated by Walter Cronkite, is a timely primer on the election process in the United States. It's a visual civics course containing basic information many of us forgot as soon as we were assaulted by non-Euclidian geometry or some-such in high school.

The program also should prove interesting for old and young alike in that it explains in plain English how network television news can "project" a presidential election winner so

It contrasts this with the good old days when there were no computers to speed up the vote sampling and analysis process.

In that era, vote reports took a lot of time and, as Cronkite explains, it often "looked like a horse race...first one candidate appeared to be winning...then the other one caught up and passed him...then the first one caught the second one again."

The program, written and produced by Joel Heller, has a lot of flashy visual effects that hopefully will lengthen the notoriously short attention span of the young viewer. And even the old one.

Thankfully, most of the nar-ration isn't "written down" for the kids

"What's An Election All About" was born, oddly enough, in the tumult and hoopla of this year's Democratic and Republican national conventions in Florida

During those gatherings, CBS News broadcast two experimental programs that tried to tell children what the conventions were all about while their parents were trying to figure out the same thing.

Saturday's program marks the start of a regular series of half-hour news shows for children. All the programs will be narrated by regular CBS correspondents and keyed to major news events.

One segment now in the planning stages for broadcast next spring is entitled, "What's the Congress All About?"

Diabetes Subject For Dr. Edmonds

Dr. Robert Edmonds, pediatrician, will be the featured speaker for the Nov. 7 meeting of the Sedalia chapter of the American Diabetes Association at the REA building on North Highway 65.

Dr. Edmonds' topic will be "What Is Diabetes, Insulin, Surgery and Ketcacidosis?" A question and answer session will follow his presentation.

The meeting, which begins at 7:30 p.m., is open to the public.

Integration Is System For Impaired

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) - In many Midwest school districts, the parents of Vikki, Tina and Jack would have no choice but to send their children to a special school.

At the special school, Vikki, Tina and Jack may learn the art of sign language to facilitate their communication with their teachers and with other children with similar hearing problems.

But take away the special school and Vikki, Tina and Jack would still find they have to learn to function in society.

This is not the case in Dubuque where Vikki, Tina and Jack and nine other children with hearing impairments are attending Lincoln Elementary School just like the rest of the kids.

We use the total integration effect," explained Clayton Johnson, an audiologist and coordinator of services for hearing-impaired children. "We say to the children 'You're just like other children; just in one area are you different.'

Two teachers have been hired to teach the children in lipreading, in pronunciation and in keeping up with their regular courses should any of the 12 students fall behind an amplification system linked directly with the aid worn by the hearing-impaired child.

Each classroom teacher uses

The net result, Johnson says, is to produce a child able to communicate socially outside the school.

The project is funded by the county school district and by Dubuque See-Hear, Inc., a nonprofit organization of parents of hearing-handicapped children and interested persons.

Reveal Wealthy Donors To President's Effort

By DICK BARNES Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) Thirteen wealthy donors headed by million-dollar contributor W. Clement Stone gave President Nixon's re-election campaign $3.5 million in hitherto secret contributions

Their names were on a list of 283 donors who poured a total of $5 million into the Nixon campaign between Jan. 1, 1971, and March 9, 1972-before a new federal law required the naming of campaign contrib-

The self-styled citizens' lobby had filed suit to force disclosure of the donors' names.

Another list of donors who gave from $100 to $999 during the period is to be disclosed

Still secret are the names of contributors between March 10 and April 7, the day the new law went into effect. The March 10 cutoff marked the final reporting date under the old Corrupt Practices Act.

Republican fund-raisers pulled in millions of dollars just before the April 7 deadline so the contributors could avoid public identification.

Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate, began disclosing contributions during the primary elections and made a major issue of Nixon's refusal to do the Stone, chairman of Combined Insurance Co. of America, had said publicly he gave more than $500,000 to the Nixon campaign. In 1968, he was the largest known Nixon donor, giving $500,000, and apparently will hold that rank this year. He has given another $27,500 in recorded contributions since

After the report was released, Stone told newsmen in Chicago that the correct figure actually was more than $1 million. But he declined to say how much more. He said he objects to having the contributions described as secret.

Editor Observes 100th Birthday

John Netherland Heiskell, editor of the Arkansas Gazette since 1902, celebrated his 100th birthday Thursday.

Nearly 1,000 persons attended a reception Thursday evening and hundreds of birthday wishes, including one from George S. McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, poured into the newspaper's office.

"One hundred years of life and many years of service to your community is a record achieved by few and to be admired by many," McGovern's telegram said. "My very best wishes to you on this occasion." Various Arkansas political figures attended.

At the reception, E. K. Gaylord, owner of the Daily Oklahoman and Times at Oklahoma City, presented Heiskell a present. Gaylord is five months younger than Heiskell.

Veteran newscaster Paul Harvey took note of the occasion in his broadcast on a local station, quoting one of Heiskell's mottoes: "If I'd know I was going to live this long, I'd have taken better care of my-

Heart Surgery Has Mental Aspects

Mental Aspects

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would shake the backet to tell you of my mental problems. I had a near fatal would have problems. I had a near fatal heart attack three years ago. Eighteen months later, I could hardly put one foot ahead of the other. My cardiologist did a dye test on my heart to determine if and where I had a blocked artery.

The dye test caused a blood

The dye test caused a blood clot above my right ankle. It was removed by a suction machine up through my groin. I could not be given any sedatives due to my heart condition and I went through very much pain—so, I don't plan to ever have another dye test.

I did have a blocked artery, the main one over the front of my heart. My doctor advised me to have open heart surgery. He said I didn't have a chance to live another year without surgery. He explained a vein would be removed from my left leg and sewed to the artery to bypass the clogged artery.

I decided to have it, as I still have young children. I am a 43-year-old female. I went to Houston, Texas, for the surgery. Everything went wrong. My heart stopped on the table before my chest was opened—so that called for quick action to get it open. The surgeon massaged my heart until the heart-lung machine could be set

The surgeon did not know how long my heart stopped without blood circulation. He was afraid I might have brain damage. However, I went into a coma which lasted eight days. I cannot tell you about the horrible dreams I went through.

I am doing fairly well now, and take medicine for my heart and to control skipping of the heart. My problem is I can't shake the bad dreams. The surgeon told my husband I would have loss of memory, that I should forget it and not talk about it. I am nervous and cannot hold anything in. I feel I just have to talk about it. I am worried about myself and sometimes I have chest pain. I have fought hard to live. I had pneumonia the fourth day and didn't know where the next breath was coming from. Can you understand what I went through?

Dr. Lamb, I am very thankful I am still alive. I do not want to be a cardiac cripple, but I just can't shake this mental thing. I have nightmares where I beat on my husband to fix the oxygen machine, it is on fire, etc. I need someone to talk to. My family is very kind but they don't understand my problem, so if you can read this, God bless

Dear Reader - Yes. I understand what you have been through. As a heart specialist I have attended many patients through open heart surgery. I wanted to put your letter in the column because too often people hear only the wonderous achievements in heart surgery without hearing the other side of the story. There are many complications that can occur and this is why some heart specialists are relatively conservative about sending patients to surgery.

I think you should talk about your experience. The best thing for you to do is 'talk the whole thing out. You will get over the experience faster if you ventilate all your feelings. Good luck and I hope your health improves.

Symington Leads In District Poll

ST. LOUIS (AP) — U.S. Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., is leading his Republican opponent, Jack Cooper, by more than a 2-to-1 margin in the 2nd Congressional District race, according to a poll by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and Kansas City Star.

The same poll showed Republican Christopher S. "Kit"

Bond leading Edward L. Dowd by 4 per cent in the governor's race. President Nixon was leading George McGovern by 16 per cent.

The district includes the greater part of St. Louis County. The dates of the interviews was not announced. Both newspapers have endorsed Bond and Nixon.

Readers Are Not Stumped by Trees

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. J. C. who wants to get rid of tree stumps in her yard that we had 10 trees cut down about two years ago. They kept sprouting out around the edges. When the grass was cut we had to trim around the stumps. I started pouring bleach on the stumps to keep them from sprouting and they started to rot. After awhile, we could start to pick up loose pieces. Now some of the stumps have completely rotted and others have partially rotted. When I see bleach on sale, I buy the limit to use for this purpose. It has worked for us. Even though it takes time, it is great when you can cover a hole with sand and watch the grass grow. — GLADYS

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. J. C. — To get rid of tree stumps pour coal oil on them and, on a still day, set fire to them. They will burn deep into the ground. Plain salt also kills them. Be sure, there is no fire ordinance in your town before setting fire to such stumps and that the fire cannot spread beyond the stump. — MRS. J. A. B.

beyond the stump. — MRS. J. A. B.

DEAR READERS — The bleach treatment for stumps was new to everyone we consulted but would be interesting to try. The coal oil or kerosene treatment is good if such burning is allowed in your city. We were advised that there is a commercial stump remover on the market. Drill a hole in the stump, pour in the remover and let stand for three weeks and it will make the stump porous all the way to the roots. Then pour on the kerosene and light. This does not produce a flame but a smoldering fire and takes three or four months to completely burn away, leaving just the ashes. — POLLY

CHAMP CLARK SAID IT WELL

CHAMP CLARK, Missouri's only speaker of the House of Representatives in congress, Washington, D.C. once pointed out:

"A man has to learn to be a representative just as he must learn to be a blacksmith, a carpenter, a farmer, an engineer, a lawyer or a doctor.

It is an unwise performance for a district to change Representatives at short intervals...select a man with at least fair capacity, one who is industrious, honest, energetic, sober, and courageous and keep him there as long as he discharges his duties faithfully and well. Such a man will gradually rise to high position and influence in the House. His wide acquaintance with members helps him amazingly in doing things."

WASHINGTON - Sen. George McGovern says he is on the verge of "the most unexpected political victory in "Most unexpected" it would be, for all the polls and other political indicators say that it's all over but the counting-that President Nixon will win re-election ov a huge margin.

This prospect prompts me to do what I have never done before: to address a column to a specific segment of American society-that is, to the "outsiders," to those who face hunger, harassment, discrimination, and who may feel that there is nothing in Tuesday's exercise for them.

So to America's poor, blacks and Puerto Ricans, her Mexican-Americans and Indians, I say:

Dear Fellow American:

I understand how little hope you place in the political process. I am aware that even under the most heartening of circumstances you are less likely to vote than other Americans. I know that the very factors which burden you with poverty, sickness, joblessness are the factors which keep you unaware of and indifferent to the political and social issues that circumscribe

I sense that ordinarily you live at the brink of dispair, thus it is impossible for you to believe that genuine hope lies in anything as full of hokum, crookedness, meanness as a Presidential election campaign. So, when the pollsters tell you that the decision no longer is in doubt, you are tempted on a frosty election morning just to say, "Ah, what the hell?" and roll over and go back to sleep.

But let me plead with you to vote, no matter which candidate you prefer. So much is at stake in any Presidential election that no American can afford to wallow in hopeless surrender. Bombs and bombast have been tried by those who despise our system, yet politics still rules

If you fail to vote Tuesday, you will have sullied your claim to freedom.

Sure, I hear the cry that neither Richard M. Nixon nor George McGovern is very likable — that both come across as negative personalities. But you surely do not need a Ph.D. in political science to know that in our Presidential elections Americans vote for a lot more than a personality.

That vote Tuesday is about a lot of issues more critical to you than to most

There is the question of your rights when you (or someone you love) are accused of a crime. After all, the odds do run against you in any confrontation with "the law." A Presidential election really determines who sits on the court and dispenses what kind of justice. If you care about the makeup of the Supreme Court, or the lower federal courts, then vote!

There is the question of how this nation is to spend 250 to 300 billion dollars each year. Do they go for health, for education, for welfare, for new jobs? Or for more awesome weapons that can be stationed in outer space? For war-happy little dictators 12,000 miles away, or for our own cities that are crumbling around us? If

There is the struggle for control of the Congress, which you cannot ignore unless your stupidity exceeds your hopelessness. The U.S. Senate may turn out to be the only effective curb on excessive Presidential power in the next four years. But a swing of only five Senate seats could put Republicans in control of the Senate, leaving a Republican President with unchecked reign. Maybe you want this, maybe you don't, but you've got so much at stake you had better make your views known at the polls.

Then there is the intangible, but extremely important, issue of moral leadership from the White House. Politicians talk of "healing the nation's wounds," but the gaping sores remain. Racial hatreds are not soothed, they are exploited. The spirit of violence is not expunged, it is intensified. Public corruption and dishonesty are not banished, they are honed to a delicate expertise, then festooned with official silence. A high sense of morality in the White House and the other top levels of government could become the biggest factor in offering you hope of breaking the chains that bind you, as they probably have bound every generation of your family. If you wish any chance of throwing off the shackles, vote!

Will I tell you how to vote? No. Only as you discern wisdom from the facts and analyses that I have presented here, and over the last few months. Do I care how you vote? Yes.

But I would rather see you vote "wrong" than not vote at all. The first giant step toward freedom is to CARE. To care enough to make that seemingly feeble effort which, added to 10 million more weak gestures, becomes a mighty force.

So wake up, my brothers and sisters and friends. The day has come to replace pool hall bitching with action.

The self-respect you save will be your own. The future you protect may be your child's. Or my child's.

> Yours with hope, Carl T. Rowan c. 1972 Field Enterprises Inc.

Familiar looking treats

By DOUG KNEIBERT

In this age of ecological awareness, we can take an object lesson in recycling from Halloween trick or treating.

For several Halloweens now our family has operated an entirely closed system when it comes to trick or treat candy and other goodies. And I know for a fact that the arrangement is practiced by many other families in Sedalia as well.

It is simplicity itself. The leftovers from last year's trick or treat candy collected by your kids becomes this year's trick or treat candy that you dispense at your door. The system can continue for years, recycling itself through a neighborhood, ward, or even the entire city.

The great advantage, of course, is economic-it provides a means of sharply cutting your Halloween candy budget. The President has been urging us to economize for months now, and this is one way of doing your bit.

however. One of these is staleness. While testing my kids' candy the other night for pins and razor blades, I ate a Reese's Peanut Butter Cup that was four years old if it was a day.

I also finished off a box of Milk Duds that I could swear was left over from the night we saw "Son of the Planet of the Apes" for the second time a year or so ago.

How we got that one back I don't know. but I suspect a family a few doors up the street. I get even Tuesday night by slipping their kids two packs of congealed Candy Corn and a 3 Musketeers that was beginning to get a little white around the

There was also a caramel cupcake my wife made three Halloweens ago that came back Tuesday night. It has the appearance of something dug up in a Stone Age peat

Like an atomic reactor, even this recycling system occasionally needs replenishment. For that reason I would suggest that every three or four years families throw out all the old trick or treat candy and buy new. And please, no more Tootsie Rolls. They

Governor's race holds excitement

While Missourians perhaps may be bored and tired of the presidential campaign, there is no excuse to feel the same way about the race for governor of Missouri. The contest is one of the hardest fought in recent memory.

about the unusually high calibre of candidates for state office this year, and how the people generally will be well-served no matter who wins. The governor's race also sees two men of high qualifications vying for office.

In Edward L. Dowd, the Democratic candidate, we have a man of tested performance and maturity. Mr. Dowd has made a name for himself in Missouri, primarily in the field of law enforcement, and has campaigned hard and well in taking his message of "a fresh start for Missouri" to the voters.

On the Republican side, State Auditor Christopher "Kit" Bond has mounted a vigorous campaign, and has promised voters that he will bring to the governor's office the same high standards and professional approach he has introduced in the auditor's office. His four years in state government (two in the attorney general's office) have given him the opportunity to observe its workings - and failures - at first hand, and to develop an approach to solving some of the problems that confront Missouri.

When Mr. Bond's name first was being talked up as gubernatorial material, we expressed the opinion on this page that his youth and relative lack of extensive experience would work against him. But when we compare Mr. Bond's background to his oppenent's (no experience in servant and proven vote-getter, as he demonstrated in his landslide victory as state auditor in 1970. We have commented before Although the governor's race this year is not shaping up as a landslide, we feel that Mr. Bond again will prove that he has the confidence of Missouri's voters.

> Both candidates offer sensible and needed programs for Missouri: here we would have no quarrel with Mr. Dowd. But after 28 years of one-party domination of the governor's office in Missouri, we think it is time for a change. Were the situation reversed, and the Republicans the entrenched party. we would counsel the same course of action. WASHINGTON - In a move that could upset the delicate diplomacy between Washington and Peking, the United States is delivering two submarines to Communist China's arch enemy, Chiang Kai-shek.

The transfer was approved by the President's national security adviser, Henry Kissinger, in a secret order dated

White House sources stress that the subs had been promised to Chiang several months ago and that the delivery violates no agreement with Peking. "We have been meticulous about keeping our agreements with the People's Republic of China," a top policymaker told us.

Kissinger also placed strict conditions on Chiang's use of the subs. The order to Defense Secretary Mel Laird emphasized:

"With reference to your memorandum of September 13, 1972, regarding provision of two diesel-powered submarines to the Republic of China (Taiwan), the transfer is approved subject to the following conditions:

"- That the first ROC submarine crew's underway training not begin until late

'- That we obtain from the ROC, as a condition of the transfer of the two submarines, a formal written understanding that the submarines are to be used exclusively for anti-submarine warfare training.

"- That whatever press guidance covering both the beginning of underway training and the formal transfers of the two submarines be cleared with the White

Father McLaughlin's speeches are so militant that he sometimes seems to contradict the official White House line. He appears to disagrée with White House negotiator Henry Kissinger on the prospects for a Communist takeover, which McLaughlin warns will mean a "bloodbath" with up to one million victims in South Vietnam.

In contrast with Kissinger's moderate tone toward North Vietnam, the bluff, bearish priest cries out that North Vietnam is "the most aggressive, brutalizing and austere government on earth." He also extols the bombing of the North.

His views on Vietnam have changed radically in the last two years. Father McLaughlin came to President Nixon's attention in 1970 when the goodly friar ran a spirited, pro-peace campaign against Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I. The President was so impressed with McLaughlin's slam-bang style that he recruited the priest as an

But on his return, the White House dispatched him at least seven times to make sabre-rattling political speeches based on his Vietnam trip.

Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., learned of the clerical campaigner and fired off an inquiry to Defense Secretary Mel Laird. The letter was referred to the Pentagon Chaplains Board whose executive secretary, Col. Duncan Stewart, wrote back to Metcalf disclaiming any responsibility for Father McLaughlin's junket.

"The command chaplain (in Vietnam) had no knowledge of his visit until he met him at a luncheon in Saigon," wrote Colonel Stewart. "Father McLaughlin is an adviser and writer for President Nixon.'

We reached Father McLaughlin at the White House. He explained that the National Security Council had wanted him to look at the war "from a humanitarian perspective." He saw nothing wrong with using the information he gathered on his trip for political purposes.

He opened the king of hearts and looked over dummy for a full two seconds. Mike was

Students Involved In Container Test

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) -About 25 engineering students at the University Missouri-Columbia entered a contest to build a container that could prevent an egg from breaking if the egg were tossed at a board from 15 feet away.

On Wednesday the entries were tested in the contest sponsored for a fifth year by aerospace and mechanical engineering students.

More than half the entries were successful, But Ron Moore, a graduate student won the $15 first price. Most entries depend on wire suspension systems or padding to keep the eggs intact but Moore's was the lightest

Moore wrapped his egg in a plastic packing material and attached a helium-filled balloon to it. The balloon made the container more difficult to toss but reduced the weight of the container

The ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH in endorsing James Spainhower on Oct. 8, 1972, declared:

(George Parker's home town newspaper) "For us the race for state treasurer has raised an interesting question about the philosophy which governs the handling of interest bearing state accounts...

"In this race we favor Jim Spainhower simply because he seems to have a more sophisticated grasp of the job he is seeking. On many questions Parker is prone to say he will study the matter and make a good decision after he is elected. Spainhower, on the other hand, seems to have done more of his thinking ahead of time. At the level of treasurer we do not think the party label issue is important enough to be overriding as Parker urges. . .

Unanimous Vote For Environment

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. membership voted 115-0 Thursday to set up machinery for international action to improve the environ-

The vote came in the economic committee of the General Assembly over the protests and abstentions of the Soviet bloc. The 132-nation assembly still must vote on the environment plan in plenary session. but the big vote in the committee assures assembly approval

The resolution approved would create a 58-nation environmental governing council, a fund to finance programs and a professional secretariat to direct the effort.

The fund is expected to have $100 million to spend in the first five years. The United States offered $40 million providing other nations come up with the remaining $60 million. Several other industrialized nations, including Canada and Britain. have pledged substantial sums.

The committee also referred to the proposed governing council for "appropriate action" the declaration of principles and the action plan recommended by the Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm in June. The 109 recommendations in the Stockholm action plan include such things as monitoring climate changes, natural resources management. water supply research and waste recycling

The Soviet bloc, which boycotted the Stockholm conference because East Germany was excluded, said it could not be bound by the conference recommendations. However, it expressed support in principle for international cooperation in the environmental field.

Meanwhile, in the assembly's main political committee, Brazil and a committee of seven other nonaligned countries were trying to draft a compromise resolution that would bring China and the United States into the planning of the world disarmament conference proposed by the Soviet Union. The United States says such a conference would raise false hopes of rapid progress toward disarmament while Peking says it would be an "empty-talk shop.

'Tax Relief' Should Aid Amendment No. 1

By LARRY HALL Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - The magic words "tax relief" are expected to trigger overwhelming approval of constitutional amendment No. 1 on Tuesday's general election bal-

It is one of two amendments before the voters. The second is a technical legislative change.

The tax relief amendment has been largely overlooked in the campaign, with no one beating the drums actively for it or against it. It is designed primarily to provide some relief for the elderly but also affects every Missouri householder who pays property

For years old age pensioners and many legislators have tried to do away with the homestead tax on property owned by persons over 65.

The proposed amendment ized. would do that, aiding some 353. 000 older persons. It would also provide help for elderly ren-

A circuit breaker bill in the 1972 legislature carried a fiscal about $74 a year for some 138,-500 persons

In addition the amendment would abolish the property tax on household goods, which has been called a nuisance tax and an invitation to cheating by householders who fail to list all their furniture, clothing, radio and TV sets or other property in their home at full value.

This tax is estimated to produce about $12 million to $13 million a year for local governments, but it is very unevenly administered and never strictly enforced. The effect is that the

A law passed by the 1972 legislature would repeal this levy estimate of $13 million, or as of January 1975. The constitutional amendment says that if it is ever re-enacted, it would not apply to individuals or nonprofit groups, only to private corporations.

The revenue from this tax, estimated now at $19 million a year, is collected by the state and rebated to local governments. Again, it would be up to the legislature to find a way to reimburse local governments for the money they would lose.

How Do YOU Feel About Mental Health?

"One out of 10 Missourians are affected in some way by mental health problems it is vital that we speed up the great advances we have been making in mental health programs." That's how Ed Dowd feels about our mental health programs! He also says, "It is extremely important that those who work in our mental health programs be paid more adequate, competitive wages." If that's the way you feel about mental health, then Ed Dowd's your man for Missouri's Governor.

Sure, the people of Missouri want a change. But we all know a change for change's sake isn't the answer. The real answer lies with a mature man of Ed Dowd's unquestioned good character. The son and grandson of policemen . . . a father who understands . . . a man who didn't inherit a thing except an honest respect for the working man, a compassion for those less fortunate and a sincere willingness to help. We can trust Ed Dowd to do the right thing for all the people. Be sure November 7. Vote for Ed Dowd. Democrat

HONG KONG (AP) - Chefs in China have perfected a quick-freeze process for one of their greatest delicacies - Peking Duck, a Hong Kong Communist newspaper reported.

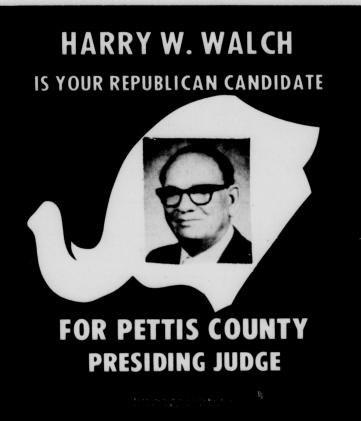

Ta Kung Pao in a dispatch from Canton said the new product was served to newsmen and Hong Kong businessmen at the current Canton Trade Fair and 'all reported they were the equal in every respect to freshroasted ducks.'

An official of the fair said China is ready to ship the frozen ducks to foreign customers.

'All you need to do is to heat the ducks in a pot of boiling vegetable oil," the official said.

Missouri's leading newspapers endorse Kit Bond for Governor.

THE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH: ". . . the independent voter will favor the election of Mr. Bond. . . Over the years Democratic officials have become entrenched in a mire of patronage; a Republican would be far better qualified to reform the system. For this and other reasons noted we urge the election of Mr. Bond."

THE ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT: "Kit Bond is a man of action. He has the experience and knowledge of State Government. . . He has the integrity, character and mental toughness required for the challenging duties of Governor. . . He is his own man and a tremendously capable one at that. He will make an outstanding Governor."

THE JEFFERSON CITY NEWS-TRIBUNE: "The lack of people's trust in their public servants is the over-riding issue in the campaign. Only a sweeping transition of new faces, ideas, vitality and a totally fresh outlook can restore this confidence. Christopher (Kit) Bond, we think has the tools, the capacity and drive to accomplish this goal."

THE CAPE GIRARDEAU SOUTHEAST MISSOURIAN: "We believe . . . that too many have been in office too long in too many bureaus for there to be effective government under a continuation of the present establishment... If change is to come, it must be through a new party unhampered by old loyalties extending back more than three decades. . . Consequently, we support Christopher S. Bond."

THE ROLLA DAILY NEWS: ". . . Missouri needs new progressive leadership to lift it out of its lethargy. That is why the Daily News urges the election of Bond as the next Governor of Missouri."

THE KANSAS CITY STAR: "A Bond victory in November would re-establish the 2-party system in the state's highest elective office. It would also provide the opportunity for a new direction for Missouri. If the people of Missouri want a fresh start next January, The Star believes that Christopher Bond is better qualified to follow through."

THE COLUMBIA TRIBUNE: "He has conducted the state auditor's office with honesty and intelligence. . . We think the voters should elect a bright, energetic Governor who will have the maximum mandate for change. That description fits Kit Bond. . ."

THE SPRINGFIELD NEWS AND LEADER: "On the basis of Bond's past record and his announced plans for reforming things generally in the State Capital, we think he should be elected Governor. He has our wholehearted support."

S-C Harriers to State

More than 100 individuals will get the gun Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the University of Missouri Gustin Golf Course in Columbia for the 23rd-annual Missouri State High School Activities Association's Cross Country Run.

Included in field of the 12 teams that have gained final berths is Sedalia Smith-Cotton, who will be making their third straight appearance in the state meet. S-C captured first in last week's regional at Elm Hills Golf Course, ahead of Jefferson City and Knob Noster, who also qualified their teams for the finals.

The Tigers, last year's eighth-place finisher in the MSHSAA's state competition, will find the toughest field they have been entered against all season Saturday

Among those who placed in the top 10 last season returning this year are House Springs (Northwest), who was the runner-up to state champion St. Louis Parkway Central; Raytown South, the third-place finisher; Riverview Gardens, who finished in a tie for fourth; and Normandy, who captured 10th a year ago.

All share the favorite role in the 1972 competition. In addition to the teams that finished in the top three positions in last week's regional competition at the four sites across the state, will be those individuals who finished in the top 10, but whose team's did not place in the top three.

One of those individuals is Hannibal's Steve Walsh, who was the runner-up to DeSmet's Paul Heck in the Hazelwood Regional. Walsh, only a sophomore, ran the distance in a time of 9:54.0, less than three seconds behind Heck's clocking of 9:51.9.

However, Heck was not the fastest of all the state's qualifiers. John Prasuhn of House Springs toured the Mehlville course in 9:50.9 to earn the honor. Warren Wisner, Raytown South, won the individual honor at the Kansas City area finals with a time of 9:56.9. He placed third last year in Columbia Smith-Cotton's Steve Fisher was the individuals winner on the Elm Hills course, tourning the distance in 10:17. Fisher, along with teammate Jim Lovercamp, guided the Tigers the team title with a low total of 47. Lovercamp finished 10th. Other S-C finishers included Robert Mayes (12th), C.E. Baldwin (18th) and reasons. Senior Jerry House, 6-6, Fayetteville, Ark., also announced he was quitting for personal reasons.

Canfield, 6-9, and a senior, won national honors at Wichita Southeast High School. He had an outstanding freshman season, then suffered a collapsed lung just after the Big Eight tournament his sophomore year. The problem prevented him playing until late in the year as KU amassed a 27-3 record, went unbeaten in 14 Big Eight games, and finished fourth in the NCAA finals.

Last year Canfield was the club's third leading scorer, averaging 6.6 points a game. He was fourth leading rebounder with a 4.7 average. His personal high was 27 points against Oklahoma State in the Big Eight tournament last year

Whitey Wanted To See if He Could Manage in the Majors

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) -Whitey Herzog, named in a surprise move Thursday as the new Texas Rangers' baseball manager, says he took the job "because I want to see if I can do at the major league level what I did in the minors.

Herzog, who was picked by Ranger owner Bob Short although strong speculation this week had pointed to New York Yankee third-base coach Dick Howser, replaces Hall of Famer Ted Williams, who resigned last month.

Herzog was director of player development for the New York

Short called the appointment of Herzog, who has a reputation for making things happen, "an historic announcement which bodes well for the future of the Rangers" and said he'll have "complete authority just as Williams did.

Herzog had no illusions about the present caliber of the team he will lead.

He characterized the Rangers, who had major league baseball's worst record at 53-100 last season, as "one of the worst I've ever seen when they played a series with Kansas City." He added, "But I guess they weren't any worse than the Mets used to be.

He said he would like to make the Rangers "respectable" as soon as possible.

Herzog's appointment left no holdovers from Williams' fouryear stint as manager, as Short also announced Thursday that no member of this year's coaching staff would be rehired.

Put Up or Shut Up Time in the Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) - It's put up or shut up Saturday for the Oklahoma Sooners and the Iowa State Cyclones in the Big Eight Conference football race.

The two clubs, each with one conference defeat, collide before a sellout crowd of more than 35,000 at Ames, Iowa.

Barring startling developments involving the third-ranked Nebraska Cornhuskers, who lead the league with a 3-0 record, the loser of the Sooner-Clyclone battle is almost certain to bow out of the running for the Big Eight crown.

The Cornhuskers' nationally Liberty and Sun Bowls will televised game at 15th-ranked Colorado must share top billing with the shootout at Ames between the seventh-ranked Sooners and the 14th-rated Cyclones. Colorado is 3-2 in conference competition, Oklahoma 1-1 and Iowa State 2-1.

Missouri, 16th ranked and 1-2, faces Kansas State, 1-3, and Kansas, 0-3, goes to Oklahoma State, 2-1, for games of lesser importance although Oklahoma State must win or forget its championship ambitions.

Scouts from the Sugar, Gator, our schedule. It would be nice pour into Ames to watch the Sooners and the Cyclones.

Iowa State Coach Johnny Majors, whose team is badly battered after last week's 34-8 victory over Kansas State, has spent the week trying to find ways to slow down Oklahoma's crack wishbone offense "and how to move the ball against their great defense.

"It's always important to score first," Majors notes, "but I'd rather score first in this game than any other one on to make them play catch up. Tim Welch, their No. 2 fullback hurt you by running at you." heck, yes.

"In past years," says Sooner Coach Chuck Fairbanks, "I've always felt that we had a physical advantage over them but that's not the case this season. Their team is strong physically and blessed with some of the most talented athletes in the Big Eight at skilled positions.

"It's a big, big game for us and them, too. We know what we're getting into up there. It won't be any picnic. I think they're the best team in Iowa State history.

Ruling Hailed Victory

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - A U. S. Department of Education ruling that nonpublic school students must get equal treatment with public students in remedial reading clinics has been hailed as "a victory of needy children.'

Bishop Michael F. McAuliffe of Jefferson City, chairman of the Missouri Catholic Conference, used those words Thursday.

He reported that the federal department has ordered the state Department of Education to give equal treatment to nonpublic students at the reading diagnostic centers operated by the Jennings School District near St. Louis and by Lincoln University in Jefferson City.

If the state doesn't comply in 14 days, the federal department will bypass the state agency and set up separate arrangements, using some of the federal title III funds earmarked for the state Education Department

Under state restrictions, the bishop said, public school pupils could attend the remedial reading centers during regular school hours but nonpublic students from Catholic and Lutheran schools had to go after school.

He said this imposed time and travel burdens and excluded all the children from rural areas.

In addition, he said, the nonpublic students were deprived of the services of federally paid employes who consulted with the teachers of the public school students in a followup program.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Falstaff Brewing Corp., which has had financial losses in recent years, went outside the founding Griesedieck family for the first time ever Thursday to elect a new president. Ferd J. Gutting, who joined Falstaff in the 1958 merger with the Griesedieck Bros. Brewery Co. and has been Falstaff's group vice president in charge of finance, was elected president, chief executive officer and a member of the board of directors Thursday. He succeeds Joseph Griesedieck said the president "brings to his new post a blending of talent, experience and management expertise required to deal with the challenges facing the company.

Past presidents of the firm have been founder Joseph "Papa Joe" Griesedieck, his son, Alvin, and the present board chairman.

The company produces Falstaff, Narragansett and Ballantine brands of beer and ale and a line of animal feeds.

McGovern Backers Will Not Appear

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) - Two Hollywood entertainers will not appear in Southern Missouri in behalf of the McGovern-Shriver ticket as supposedly arranged by a mysterious blonde, says Dr. Charles Ash.

Ash, of Springfield, 7th Dis-trict co-ordinator of the campaign, said Thursday preparations for Marlo Thomas and Peter Lawford were cancelled in Cape Girardeau, School of the Ozarks, Lebanon, Springfield and Joplin when the appearances could not be confirmed and the woman disappeared.

Ash said the woman, identified as Mrs. Carolyn DuPont, also claimed she had arranged for the Temptations, a singing group, to appear in Kansas City and St. Louis.

He said she moved to Springfield in May and worked one day a week in McGovern headquarters. After the Democratic National Convention Mrs. DuPont worked full time in the Greene County Democratic headquarters.

Ash said she left for Hollywood Sunday.

The training of the C130 crews will be handled by civilian firms under contract, working with the U.S. Air Force advisory group for the time being, sources said. If the cease-fire agreement is signed while the training is still under way, the civilian firms will take over the entire program, the sources said.

Informed sources said the Vietnamization program originally did not call for the South Vietnamese to get C130s but this was changed recently so they could move more troops and cargo.

One mechanic at Tan Son Nhut said the South Vietnamese didn't know the C130s were arriving until Thursday. The only cargo aboard them appeared to be maintenance equipment.

Informants said several hundred armored vehicles - perhaps as many as 500 tanks and armored personnel carriers are also being flown to the South Vietnamese from the United States.

But there are differing versions on why Eagleton hasn't recorded the promotions originally requested by McGovern campaign officials in Eagleton's home state of Missouri.

Eagleton press aide Michael Kelley said Thursday that two weeks ago a McGovern aide called Eagleton's office to request that Eagleton tape the ad.

Kelley quoted Eagleton's administrative assistant, Douglas Bennett, as replying there were technical objections and questions on the effectiveness of the proposed format. Bennett, according to Kelley, is still waiting for a member of McGovern's staff to call back with suggestions on improving the broadcast. Susan Davis, a member of the communications staff of Lawrence F. O'Brien, McGovern campaign coordinator, said she was the person who called Bennett. She quoted Bennett as saying Eagleton's travel schedule would prevent him from taping the broadcast "They weren't very cooperative," she said in a phone inter-

Miss Davis said she has arranged with no difficulty radio promotions by Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, Hubert H. Humphrey, Major Leader Mike Mansfield, John Pastore, Edward M. Kennedy, Birch Bayh and House Speaker Cal Albert. Further complicating relations between the McGovern and Eagleton staffs are a handwritten notation on a newspaper article sent by Bennett to Miss Davis' boss John Stewart, described by Kelley as an old friend of Bennett's.

The article from a Detroit newspaper quoted McGovern sources as saying there were unpublished complications to Eagleton's health beyond the nervous exhaustion which led to McGovern's request that he step aside

When 'Time Is Right'

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon says the United States will find a Vietnam settlement "when the agreement is right-not one day before.'

The President, who jets to Illinois, Oklahoma, and Rhode Island Friday to start a sixstate campaign spurt, told a nation-wide television audience that ambiguities in a draft peace accord with the North Vietnamese "must be clarified."

"We are not going to allow an election deadline or any other kind of deadline to force us into an agreement which would be only a temporary truce and not a lasting peace," he said.

Friday's trip halfway across the continent and back is intended to bolster Republican chances of capturing closely contested Senate seats now held by Democrats.

It comes as Nixon discusses health issues in a noontime network-radio broadcast and precedes a Saturday trip carrying him to North Carolina, New Mexico and California.

Thursday night's speech was Nixon's first prime-time television address of the campaign. And it was his most comprehensive report to date on the status of the Vietnam peace maneuvering.

He told voters that "the leaders in Hanoi will be watching" the election results for an answer to the question of whether Americans want "peace with honor or peace with surren-

His re-election, the President said, "can help make certain that peace with honor can now be achieved." Campaigning in Michigan, Sen. George McGovern said after listening to Nixon's address that "apparently the negotiations for peace are not going well at all.

"We have reached substantial agreement on most of the terms of a settlement," Nixon said as he reported that the settlement "we are ready to conclude" would accomplish his basic objectives-including return of all war prisoners and "a cease-fire throughout Indochina.

Schedule St. Louis Visits

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Two national Democratic figures, including presidential nominee George McGovern, were scheduled to make several campaign appearances in the St. Louis area during the final weekend of the political campaign.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was scheduled for appearances tonight at a hospital dedication in East St. Louis and a Democratic fund-raising dinner in St. Louis.

Kennedy was to be joined at the second annual Roosevelt Day Dinner in St. Louis tonight by Missouri's two senators and the entire statewide Democrat-McGovern was scheduled to arrive in St. Louis Saturday night, appear at a Democratic rally in Granite City, Ill., and remain in the area overnight. McGovern's schedule calls for him to appear on the nationally televised "Face the Nation" show Sunday, when it originates at KMOX-TV in St.

Louis. His campaign office said closed by Hanoi a week agoand not disputed by the United States-makes no reference to an Indochina-wide cease-fire. Rather, it says a cease-fire in South Vietnam would begin 24 hours after the agreement is signed Nixon's use of the phrase "a cease-fire throughout Indochina" was seen as an indication that the breadth of a truce is one of the issues still to be resolved. White House officials would not confirm that this is a hangup, but one said the President "always chooses his words carefully.

Turning to domestic issues in his 25-minute address, Nixon said one of his priorities in a second term would be "a rebirth and renewal of state and local government" without the bureaucratic meddling he said comes with a big federal

Tentative Accord At GM Facility

ST. LOUIS (AP) - A tentative agreement with the General Motors Assembly Division plant here was ratified Thursday night in a vote by members of United Auto Worker Union Local 25.

The agreement, the details of which were not announced, covered wages and what the union called "speed up" operations instituted when the Fisher Body and Chevrolet plants merged. A GMAD spokesman had said the merger forced the dismissal of some workers, but did not hurt production. The union contended the lack of enough workers was pressuring those still

Butz Says U.S. Farm Exports Will Total $10 Billion By Next Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, predicting that the Soviet Union will continue as a major grain buyer at least through 1975, said U.S. farm exports will total a record $10 billion by next summer.

That would be nearly 25 per cent more than the previous high of $8.1 billion for the year ended last June 30, Butz said.

It would exceed by far anticipated imports of foreign farm products and thus add $3.5 billion toward the U.S. trade bal-

The Soviet Union this year has purchased about $1.2 billion worth of U.S. wheat, corn and soybeans. Those, Butz said, account for about half of the expected increase this fiscal year.

"We expect the U.S.S.R. to remain a major importer of grain for possibly the next three to five years," Butz said in a

President Nixon, early in his administation, set $10 billion as a farm export goal for the decade of the 1970s. Initially, experts believed the goal could be reached around 1975. But it became apparent two months ago, following huge Soviet purchases, the target would be much nearer.

Butz said the Soviet Union is expected to be the second largest foreign customer of U.S. farmers this year. Japan, the traditional leader, is expected to continue on top and may buy $1.5 billion worth of commodities by next June 30.

Commenting on the export plus of U.S. farm products this fiscal year Butz said: "This should reduce the nation's overall trade deficit below last year's $5.1-billion mark, despite an expected increase in the nonfarm deficit this year.'

A report issued by the department, along with Butz's statement, said the large export movement will put heavy requirements on U.S. transportation

"The increased volumes of grain and soybeans in particular, will mean substantially increased demands by country elevators for rail cars, by interior elevators for rail cars and barges and by port elevators for ships," the report said.

Thus, officials said, the grain and

Analysts said the value of wheat exports is expected to increase by about 90 per cent from a year earlier to more than $2 billion; feed grains by 38 per cent to $1.6 billion; and soybeans and soybean products by 13 per cent to $2.3 billion.

In addition, officials said, higher prices are expected to boost exports of livestock products by 32 per cent this year to almost $1 billion. Slight increases are forecast for dairy and poultry products down 30 per cent and cotton down 6 per cent," the report said. "However the volume of cotton exports will be up 5 per cent to 3.5 million

The report said farm exports to Western Europe are estimated at $3.2 billion, slightly more than in 1971-72. Soybeans and soybean products will account for most of the increases.

Officials said farm exports to Latin America should advance to about $850 million from approximately $762 million

'Ready To Conclude' Lasting Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon said Thursday night "we are ready to conclude" a Vietnam peace settlement but "we are not going to allow an election deadline or any other kind of deadline to force us into an agreement which would be only a temporary truce and not a lasting peace.

In his first nationally televised political broadcast of the campaign, Nixon declared "we are going to sign the agreement when the agreement is right, not one day before— and when the agreement is right, we are going to sign, without one day's delay.'

"We have reached a substantial agreement on most of the terms of the settlement," Nixon said. "The settlement we are ready to conclude would accomplish the basic objectives" he presented on May 8:

A return of all prisoners of war, "a ceasefire throughtout Indochina" and the right of the South Vietnamese to determine their own future "without having a communist government or a coalition government imposed on them against

This was a reference to Hanoi's contention that the United States had agreed to sign a Vietnam settlement pact by that date. The nine-point agreement disclosed by Hanoi makes no reference to an Indochinawide cease fire. Rather, it says "24 hours after the signing of the agreement, a cease fire shall be observed throughout South Vietnam.' The nine point draft agreement disclosed by Hanoi also says that all foreign troops would be withdrawn from Cambodia and Laos and that military activities in those two countries would end.

In his taped-in-advance television address, Nixon said some are asking "Why worry about the details?" He provided his

The President told the voters that "the leaders in Hanoi will be watching" the results of next Tuesday's election.

"They will be watching for the answer of the American people ... to this question: shall we have peace with honor or peace with surrender?"

"Always in the past," Nixon said, "you have answered 'peace with honor' and by giving that same answer once again on Nov. 7 you can help make certain that peace with honor can now be achieved."

Nixon referred in his 24-minute address to his journeys this year to Peking and Moscow. He said his major goal in a second term is "to complete the foundations for a world at peace- so that the next generation can be the first in this century to live without war, and without fear of

Demand Commitment On Peace Agreement

PARIS (AP) — The North Vietnamese declared Thursday there will be no further negotiations with Henry A. Kissinger until the United States commits itself to signing the draft peace agreement.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong speakers denounced the Nixon administration for what they called "a sign the agreement, the United States cord by Oct. 31, the deadline set by Hanoi.

The Saigon government warned at the 165th weekly session of the peace conference that it would refuse to recognize any cease-fire agreement concluded against its will.

In four hours of vituperation between the opposing Vietnamese delegations, there was little to show that "peace is at hand," as Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, said last week.

Nguyen Xuan Phong of the South Vietnamese delegation did not directly refer to the peace agreement in his speech but raised a series of major objections to what he said were "utterly contradictory and unacceptable" proposals.

He warned that the United States would not allow itself to be rushed into a settlement of "the few remaining problems of substance.'

Allied Border Camp Overrun By North

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces led by tanks overran a South Vietnamese border camp in the central highlands Thursday. Hanoi announced it had "no other choice than to step up the fight on all fronts" following a U.S. delay in signing a draft peace plan.

Duc Co, about 200 miles north of Saigon, is one of a series of frontier base camps screening enemy infiltration from Laos and

It was surrounded by North Vietnamese tanks and infantry, pounded by artillery and missiles and assaulted from three sides.

Shortly before dawn, the rangers abandoned the camp and were reported to have broken out to the relative safety of a jungle plateau 500 yards from the camp.

There they joined other government troops. There was no immediate report on the fate of at least 60 rangers wounded inside the camp and unable to be evacuated by air because of intense antiaircraft fire.

At least three enemy tanks were reported knocked out.

North Vietnamese troops were reported to have penetrated a hamlet less than four miles outside Pleiku, headquarters for South Vietnam's central region in the highalnds. Field reports said government troops retook the hamlet, known as Plei Blang 3, Thursday morn-

Officers in Pleiku said the incident was evidence the North Vietnamese main force units were breaking into small groups and trying to penetrate as many areas as possible in preparation for a cease-fire.

In a renewed condemnation of the Nixon administration for its hesitancy to sign a draft peace agreement worked out last month. Hanoi radio said: "The Vietnamese people have no other choice than to step up their fight on all fronts - military, political and diplomatic - until complete

The Viet Cong radio claimed its forces were responsible for the crash Tuesday of a U.S. helicopter that killed 22 Americans in the Mekong Delta.

Installation Up, Too

Increase High Use Water Rates

The Sedalia Board of Public Works Wednesday night approved increases in high-use water rates and installation charges involving locations more than 60 feet from water mains.

The rate hike for high volume water users, seasonally involving from five to eight local industries, Sedalia Country Club and the Missouri State Fairgrounds, will go into effect Jan. 1. Discussion of dropping the two highest rates for users of a million or more gallons of water monthly, started in June.

Comparisons with cities of similar size and discussions with the local users involved preceded the decision for the increase, according to department manager, Herb Taylor. At one point, he reported, the department was losing as much as 15 cents per

1,000 gallons at the special rates. The highest volume rate under the revised schedule is for users of more than 200,000 gallons per month, who will begin to pay $.311 per 1000 gallons next year. Taylor asked the board to consider a change in installation fees from flat rates of $100 and $150 when he reported the flat rate be applied only to hookups taking only 60 feet of pipe or less and that for services over 60 feet the new customer be charged straight time and materials.

He said, "It isn't our intent to make money on service connections, but we can't continue to lose it, either." He noted that houses in the majority of existing housing projects could be connected for the flat rate within the 60 foot limit.

It was also reported that the Army Corps of Engineers had approved the request for a permit to continue dumping the department's "sludge" water back into Flat Creek until the treatment facilities, now being planned, can be constructed. The Corps letter said the request had been passed onto the Environmental Protection Agency and the appropriate state

Plant superintendent L. C. Heuerman, reported painting and repair work at the treatment plant is continuing and that Spring Fork Lake was down 71/2 feet below full reservoir before the rains started last week

McGovern Promises Higher Farm Income

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Sen. George McGovern campaigned through the Midwest Thursday promising higher income for farmers and saying he wouldn't let Saigon's "little dictator," as he called President Nguyen Van Thieu, stand in the way of peace in Vietnam.

The Democratic presidential nominee also said he thinks hecklers who shouted and blew whistles at Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in San Diego Wednesday were planted by Republicans "to make us look bad." He added, "If ever I saw a putup deal, that was it.'

The candidate, accompanied by his wife Eleanor, made television and radio appearances in Chicago, spoke to an estimated 8,000 students and faculty at the University of Cincinnati, and headed for Battle Creek, Mich. for another television appearance.

McGovern repeated, in a television broadcast for Illinois and Missouri, that he does not think it is his responsibility to try to rally the country behind a second Nixon administration if he loses the election.

But he said "I don't intend to lose this election.

"I don't think it's my responsibility to try to rally the people behind policies that I disagree with," McGovern said "There's something more important than unity. There's the importance of the truth. There's the importance of this country facing up to its real problems ... the corrupt and dishonest practices of this administration ... of keeping the pressure on until the war ends."

In a radio address recorded in Chicago and played later in the day on the CBS radio network, McGovern said President Nixon's farm policies have caused 150,000 farms to shut down and forced one million people to flee rural areas.

He reaffirmed promises to appoint a "working farmer" as secretary of Agriculture, lower property taxes, and take action to raise farm income to 90 per cent of parity, the theoretical measure of fair farm prices. Aides acknowledged this probably would cause an increase in grocery prices. At the University of Cincinnati, McGovern spoke in an echoing concrete fieldhouse nearly filled to its 8,200 capacity. Sprinkled through the audience were some who held aloft about half-dozen Nixon banners and sporadically heckled McGovern with pro-Nixon slogans.

McGovern, still a bit hoarse despite a regimen of honey and tea to treat his campaign-strained vocal chords, said President Thieu is threatening to veto a peace settlement in Vietnam.

At a telethon appearance during the morning in Chicago, McGovern called Thieu a "little dictator." At Cincinnati he called him a "brutal and corrupt dictator." McGovern said if he were president he'd tell Thieu "You're not going to dictate any more war."

Police Wednesday confirmed a report given to The Democrat-Capital by Mayor Jerry Jones that Darrell Burris, who joined the force as a patrolman in August this year, admitted the theft after he and two other policemen took a polygraph (lie detector) test in Jefferson City in the early part of October.

Plant bond issue invites 'yes' vote

A vote in favor of the $150,000 Alpha Sintered Metals Inc. industrial obligation bond issue next Tuesday will be a vote for Sedalia's continued economic health.

The bonds would provide revenue by which the Pennsylvaniabased company could build a plant here for the manufacture of bronze from recycled, powdered metals. This relatively new process makes Alpha a growth-type industry, according to independent studies, and the bond issue has been approved by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, which investigated the company.

According to Sedalia's director of economic development, the Alpha process is "environmentally clean," meaning that no air or water pollution would be involved. This is another plus in its favor.

Admittedly the beginning work force would be small, between 15 and 20 employes, with an expected increase to 50 within the first year of operation. But the potential for

> There would be no tax increase related to the bonds, since they would be retired by payments from the company itself. Only in the event that Alpha Sintered Metals failed to meet its payment schedule would the city have to step in, a situation that has never materialized with any of the city's other four industries that financed their plant construction or expansion programs in the same manner.

The city's bonding capacity is no impediment to the proposal at hand. As of Oct. 1, it stood at $661,611, which would cover the $150,000 proposal for the Alpha firm with no difficulty. "You have dishonored your ancestors, Lu Doc Toy," Ton Son Not said. "How can you support a man whose party would bug the Watergate?'

"It was a prank," Lu Doc Toy said. 'Everyone does it during an election year. Besides Nixon knew nothing about it.'

"That's what all the Communists for Nixon say. But we know differently. Besides, how could you work for a man who said he would stop the war in 1968?"

"Exactly," Lu Doc Toy said. "That's what I came to speak to you about. Nixon wants to stop the war again, only this time BEFORE the election.'

"It's a trick," Ton Son Not said. "What does he want in exchange for it?"

"Nothing we wouldn't have given him in 1968. It's the same deal that was offered to

"But why now? I thought the U.S. bombing was working."

"Who knows what goes on with those cockamamie Americans. But I'm giving it to you straight. If you people say okay, Nixon will send what's-his-name to Paris to sign the deal."

"Wait a minute," Ton Son Not said. "If we agree to a peace settlement, that means we'll have four more years of Nixon."

"Look, Ton Son Not," Lu Doc Toy said, "we hold the key to the American presidential election in our hands. We have to decide whether we want Nixon for President and a generation of peace, or whether we want the misguided, badly thought out socialistic programs of George

The bombing started again. "WHAT ABOUT THIEU? WILL HE GO ALONG WITH IT?" Ton Son Not yelled

"DON'T WORRY ABOUT THIEU," Lu Doc Toy yelled back. "HE'LL DO

WASHINGTON — There was a startling sequel to our publication last February of the Dita Beard memo, which linked the settlement of ITT's antitrust cases with an offer to help subsidize the Republican convention.

The memo was read with considerable stonishment inside the Securities and Exchange Commission. The SEC had subpoenaed all documents relating to ITT's acquisition of Hartford Fire Insurance, the grand prize in the antitrust settlement. Yet nowhere in 35 cartons of files, which ITT had turned over to the SEC, could investigators find the Dita Beard memo.

Angrily, they accused ITT of holding out on them. The conglomerate, not wishing to antagonize the mighty SEC, hastily produced several additional confidential memos and letters. Sources who have had access to these documents say they contain incriminating details about White House intervention to get a favorable antitrust settlement for ITT.

The names of White House aides Charles Colson and Peter Flanigan appear in the documents, our sources say. There's reason, indeed, to believe the papers may include duplicates of documents which ITT shredded last spring to keep them from falling into our hands.

The same sources tell us, however, that the incriminating documents "were immediately locked up in Ron Hunt's safe." Hunt is secretary to the SEC.

When we asked SEC Chairman William J. Casey about this, he would say only: "I am not going to comment on the investigation." Hunt told us that "no documents have been kept in a safe under my control." We asked whether the documents had been locked up under someone else's control. "I am unaware of any such documents," he said cryptically.

Further ITT memos kept from House

Meanwhile, House Commerce Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., formally requested the ITT documents from the SEC. This put Casey on the spot, since he was appointed by the President but the SEC is an arm of Congress. He put his loyalty to the President first and refused to deliver the documents to Congress. This angered Staggers who summoned Casey up to Capitol Hill. The SEC chairman, accompanied by Commissioner A. Sydney Herlong Jr., spent an hour closeted with Staggers. Sternly, Staggers reminded them that the

SEC operates under the jurisdiction of Congress and that he had once cited former Federal Communications Chairman Rosel Hyde for contempt for holding back

Staggers later told us Casey and Herlong had given him the impression they would comply with his request. Instead, they packed off the 34 boxes of ITT papers, including the hot documents in Hunt's safe, to the Justice Department. Not even copies were kept at the SEC.

Casey notified Staggers that the Justice Department had requested the documents. But Staggers disputed this. "We checked this out with the Justice Department," he told us. "They said they had not asked for the ITT documents but that Casey had informed them he was shipping them

This was equivalent to giving the fox the keys to the chicken coop. For top officials of the Justice Department are deeply implicated in the ITT scandal. Staggers has now asked Justice for access to the ITT documents, but he told us ruefully: "I understand the 34 boxes are kept under lock and key where no one can see them."

However, at least one document found its way to us before it could reach the ITT shredders. In this amazing memo, ITT directs its salesmen to mislead customers about the seriousness of another

The National Association of Securities Dealers suspended and fined Hamilton Management Corporation, an ITT mutual fund subsidiary with $700 million in assets, for cribbing official examinations and incorporating them into the company's training manual for prospective salesmen. This meant ITT-Hamilton's trainees would be fully briefed on the questions and answers before they took the NASD examinations

Involved in the scandal were Thomas Pulliam, an assistant vice president and sales training director; also Floyd Marcoe, a regional vice president. But by the time NASD had learned about the crib sheets and had notified ITT of an investigation, Pulliam and Marcoe had left the company. Three other branch managers were suspended and, subsequently, were demoted to licensed salesmen.

Before the scandal broke in the newspapers, ITT sent out a confidential memo instructing its salesmen what to tell customers. The memo was signed by ITT-Hamilton President Frank Pierson; its authenticity has been acknowledged by

"It is likely," said the memo, "that mention of the violations will be made in your local papers and that certain of your clients may have questions about the

"Advise them ... that only a very small number of Hamilton's field personnel had been engaged in improper activity." Pierson also ordered his salesmen to tell the public that "knowledge of this activity had carefully been withheld from all other persons associated with the Corporation."

This wasn't true, since an assistant vice president and a regional vice president were directly involved in the scheme. The memo also claimed none of those involved were still employes of ITT-Hamilton, although three of the five are still licensed

When we reached Pierson at Hamilton corporate headquarters in Denver, he explained that the three salesmen "are not salaried, not really employes." Then he pleaded: "Look, we have 4,000 salesmen. We're talking about five people. Certainly that's a small percentage.

A conservative view

Burning the house to roast a pig

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

LOS ANGELES — If conservatives have a favorite movie actor, it probably is John Wayne, Duke of the untarned West, who pursues in his personal life the same rugged virtues he portrays on the screen. The Duke is the walking, talking, hulking, straight-shooting embodiment of all that is pure and manly. Right?

Well, Wayne never displayed in a movie more true grit than he displayed here a couple of weeks ago, when he went publicly on record against Proposition 18. In the over-simplified view of many Americans who are appalled by pornography, the action might be twisted into a phony charge that John Wayne is in favor of smut. No such thing. The Duke is in favor of Proposition 18 is a 6,000-word statute intended to provide an entirely new structure for combatting pornography in California. The measure would make one significant change in existing law. At present, the definition of "obscenity" is qualified in California by the requirement that such material be "utterly without redeeming social importance." Contrary to widespread belief, a majority of the Supreme Court never has required any such language, but no matter: These particular words would be struck.

The proposition then goes on to write a new definition of "contemporary standards." At present, the defendant in a pornography prosecution may please the contemporary standards of the entire state of California. The new law would apply to any incorporated area, or to "the standards generally prevailing within a ten-mile radius of the area in which such activity

In furthern new sections, Proposition 18 would create sweeping prohibitions against the topless and bottomless attractions that now astonish the tourists, and it would write an encompassing law intended for the protection of minors.

John Wayne surely had to survive an inner struggle before taking his stand against the proposition. Here in California, pornography is a pollutant, like smog. In San Francisco, movie houses compete with "hardcore" attractions. In Los Angeles, a dozen houses guarantee "hard action." Both cities are infested with porno shops pursuing their sleazy trade.

The stuff is a social evil; of that much I am certain. Just as some books and works of art can lift men up and contribute to spiritual health, so the outpourings of pornography can degrade a society and contribute to spiritual sickness. A newspaperman who lives by the First Amendment, and loves it, knows outrage when he hears these commercial exploiters of the human body plead Jeffersonian principles to justify their filth.

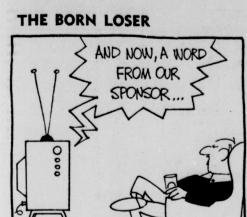

Yet Proposition 18 takes in too much. If a new Section 311.3 (a) is read strictly, as criminal statutes must be read, it would become a public nuisance in California to exhibit any picture "which explicitly reveals post-pubertal male or female genitals" within one mile "measured in a straight line" from any school or park Though the proponents deny it, the language would appear to ban even a photograph of the Michelangelo David. Under this statute, it would be made a misdemeanor even to sing a song 'depicting sexual conduct." The paintings of Renoir and Titian could not be offered for sale to minors under Section 313.21 (b). Neither could minors buy any book or magazine containing "obscenities," by which is meant slang words used to refer to genitals, buttocks, female breasts, or excretory functions or products.

The proposition treads too far on First Amendment grounds. In the name of stamping out one evil, it would create another. Striking at pornographers, the law would hit serious writers and artists as well. In Justice Frankfurter's phrase, the act would burn down the house in order to roast a pig. I have great sympathy and respect for the Californianas who drafted this bill. They are searching earnestly for an answer. Sad to say, this isn't it.

By Oswald & James Jacoby After an absence of several years, Generous George is back in the bridge game. We are not sure if his absence was due to a stay in prison caused by his use of well known generosity away from the bridge table or for some other reason.

In any event, he is back and playing a slam.

He won the first trick with his ace of diamonds; led a spade to dummy's ace and ruffed a second spade with the ace of trumps.

Then he cashed the king of trumps; looked at his opponents in his most friendly manner and said, "I don't things but I am going to give one of you a trump trick as a coming home present."

Then he led the three of trumps.

West said, "I guess you also give ice to Eskimos." Then, since he had nothing better to do, he led a diamond. George ruffed in dummy; led a spade; ruffed with his queen of trumps and led his last trump to dummy's 10. Dummy's spades were now good and the ace of clubs scored the last trick.

George was just as generous as he used to be. He had to give away that trump trick to make his contract.

Campaign Finances Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - Incomplete reports in the final pre-election round of campaign finance accounting Thursday showed that 18 re-election committees for President Nixon raised $191,000 in a 10-day period last month.

Reports from both Republican and Democratic presidential campaigns were due by midnight Thursday under the new federal election law.

Meanwhile, President Nixon's fund raisers agreed to release on Thursday evening the names of donors who gave some $6 million before the law went into effect April 7.

The agreement by the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President came Wednesday in an out-of-court settlement of a suit brought by Common Cause, the selfstyled citizens lobby

Common Cause had sued for a full disclosure of those who reportedly contributed a total of more than $10 million to the Nixon campaign before the effective date of the new law that requires a periodic accounting of all expenses and contributions over $100.

The finance committee, seeking to head off an open trial in the final days of the campaign, agreed to release the names of contributors prior to March 9, expiration date of the old law

But the committee refused to disclose contributors between March 10 and April 7 when, in effect, there was no campaign finance act.

Common Cause, claiming a significant victory, said it will try again after the election to force disclosure of the remaining unnamed contributors.

Among the few large contributors named were New York investment banker John Loeb, down for two $3,000 contributions: sports-entertainment figure Sam Schulman, $5,500; John J. Lewis, chairman of Combined Communications Corp. of Chicago, $5,521; and Motorola chief executive officer Robert Galvin, $6,000.

None of the major committees representing Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern had filed reports by the close of GAO business Thursday

The next round of campaign finance reports is due at the GAO on Jan. 31.

The GAO said Thursday it has referred details on $27,000 in contributions to Nixon's fund raisers to the attorney general for investigation of possible violation of

It said the money involves $15,000 from a Hong Kong citizen and $12,000 from corporations, both categories prohibited by law from making contributions

Pollution Decision Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. Court of Appeals here Thursday affirmed a lower court decision forbidding any significant air pollution in regions where the air is

The action left the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency under orders to attach this non-degradation requirement to all state plans for meeting national air quality

There was no immediate word whether EPA would appeal to the Supreme Court. The brief ruling by the Appeals Court, issued without further explanation, upheld the major victory won earlier by the Sierra Club and three other environment groups who had sued EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus.

Last May 30, District Judge John H. Pratt ruled that Ruckelshaus was required by the 1970 Clean Air Amendments and by EPA's own rules, to include a nondegradation requirement in the state

Justice Department lawyers representing EPA appealed Pratt's

They argued in both the District and Appeals courts that a no-pollution rule would block economic development in all remaining clean-air regions.

As required by the 1970 law, EPA has established two sets of air quality standards: "primary" standards which must be met to protect human health, and more stringent "secondary" standards designed to protect property and the environment.

Regions where the air is dirtier than these standards allow must clean up their pollution until they at least meet the federal minimum requirements. The law permits states to adopt stricter standards if

But there remain regions where the air is much cleaner than required under the primary or secondary standards.

Environment groups argued that the law's stated aim to "protect and enhance" air quality meant this clean air could not be allowed to get as dirty as the federal standards would permit.

They said that industries would flee the dirty-air regions into the clean-air regions, spreading pollution everywhere, unless existing clean air is protected.

accidents. Richard Dale Pabst, Cole Camp, an airman at Whiteman AFB, was taken to Bothwell Hospital and later transferred to the Whiteman AFB hospital. He suffered a broken pelvis, numerous lacerations and possible internal injuries following a onecar accident about 3:30 a.m. at Route J and JJ, about three miles north of Cole Camp. according to the Highway Patrol.

A spokesman for the Patrol said a pickup truck Pabst was driving South on Route J overturned after Pabst apparently missed a curve. He was found on the highway at about 5:45 a.m. by a passing motorist, the Patrol said.

Pabst apparently crawled out of the overturned pickup truck and was lying on the highway for about two hours and 15

Shipley was treated for a laceration to the left elbow and released. McVey was listed in good condition Thursday by a Bothwell Hospital spokesman. He was treated for a fractured left leg.

Shipley, who was driving a car owned by McVey, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated Thursday in Pettis County Magistrate Court, the Patrol

Recycling Project Is Abandoned

Mrs. Joe Phillips, chairman of the Pettis County Community Betterment Council, said Thursday morning that "Operation Tin Can," a Council project to eliminate solid waste in Pettis County, has fallen through because it was not "financially feasible.

Speaking at the council's monthly meeting and breakfast at the State Fair Restaurant, Mrs. Phillips, of Hughesville, said that it would cost approximately 70 cents per mile for truck and driver to transport the waste to the American Can. Co. in Kansas City, a round trip of almost American Can would pay $12 per ton for the waste, according to Mrs. Phillips, so it would take at least 12 tons just to break even. Mrs. Phillips explained that the cans must have the tops and bottoms cut off, must have the labels removed and then be cleaned and flattened. People apparently do not want to take the time to go through all of that, she said.

Representatives of several Pettis County communities involved in the self-help program presented brief summaries of the activities and projects being undertaken in their respective towns and displayed the various plaques and certificates awarded them at the annual Community Betterment Conference in Jefferson City recently.

Among the guest speakers were Bill Hall Sedalia Economic Development director, and Lloyd Baker, Moberly, who has been an active participant in community betterment in Sheraton County since the program began in 1963.

According to Hall, Pettis County is the only county in Missouri in which every community has taken an active role in the community betterment program.

Among the guests attending the breakfast were several local political figures and candidates including John Ryan, unopposed candidate for the Senate from the 21st District; George Weber, Republican candidate for representative of the 46th District; Bill Peterson, incumbent representative from the 46th District; and Pete Stohr, Republican candidate for representative from the 113th District.

Blueprints For Gymnasium

Are Finished Morris Byrum, chairman of the Neighborhood Facility Committee, told the Democrat-Capital Wednesday that the blueprints for the proposed gymnasium to be added to the new Community Center have been drawn up and bids for the building are expected to be received the latter part of November.

Byrum said he was pleased with the progress made so far in the effort to procure a community center. According to Byrum, the number of donations and the overall response of the community have been tremendous.

"It makes you feel good," Byrum said, "to live in a town that responds as well as Sedalia has.'

He said that close to $80,000 has been collected or pledged locally and "we are less than $10,000 short of our goal.'

As soon as phase two of the program is complete, which includes the raising of local funds as well as additional projects, such as drawing up the blueprints, federal funds (constituting three-fourths of the cost) can be released for use on the project, Byrum said. It is hoped this phase can be completed sometime in the latter part of December. Byrum stated that a meeting will be held in a week or so to lay the final plans and to assign various responsibilities "It used to be 'if we could get it (the center)," Byrum said. "Now it's 'when we can get it."

Thirties Recalled in Tribute

PASADENA, CALIF. — (NEA) — The first streaks of sunlight were appearing in the sky but in the large parking lot behind Pasadena's venerable Green Hotel (circa 1885), makeup artists were busy drawing pencil-line eyebrows and bright red Kewpie-doll lips on the ladies who were otherwise dressed print-bloused-slacks-

The the hairdresser turned shags, shorties and long hair into hairdos of the era. By that time the wardrobe truck had arrived. As the sky brightened daylight beamed down on ladies dressed in chiffons and silks and cameos. 1972 had vanished and 1937 had returned Banyon, the NBC-TV series which recreates those days with tongue- in- cheek detective stories with Robert Forster in the title role, had come to Pasadena to film an episode in which the hero and a lovely blonde gun moll, played by Donna Mills with a Harlow wig and platform ankle strap shoes, attempt to escape from a lot of bad guys in the hotel. The escape takes them to the roof garden where they run into elderly ladies playing Mah Jongg and into the basement where they run into Coue followers. It's a wacky comedyadventure and an episode particularly close to producer Ed Adamson's heart.

That's why he agreed to let me be in the episode, to get the feel of the era in the makeup, hairdo and clothes. It's Friday and I'm to play Mah Jongg with two great character actresses. Estelle Winwood and Florence Lake. Because I was around for only part of the '30s they decided I looked too young (that's better than the other way around), so I was given a gray wig, along with a beige, rose printed chiffon dress and a large yellow straw hat.

The preceding Friday, Adamson called me to tell me when I would work. Two days earlier he had sat in his office and recalled the days he loved so dearly and the series which had been perking for some 28 years. On Saturday he had gone to star Robert Forster's home to talk over the episode. They had a father-son relationship, these two: Adamson, the tall, white- bearded, seemingly gruff older man and Forster, the handsome, gentle, searching young one. Adamson stayed until about 1 a.m., then he went home. On Sunday morning he had a heart attack and was dead within the hour.

Because that's the way it is in this business, the company went to work on Monday finishing an episode. Then, on Tuesday, they began to film this one which was a particular favorite of Adamson's. Now, on Friday, Forster says, "This is the first day I've felt kind of OK. I've always wanted the series to succeed. I thought I was Banyon. Now the series has to succeed, because Ed WAS Adamson's widow, Helene, had called Forster to ask if he thought it would be upsetting if she visited the set. He had invited her to come over.

At lunch, she ate very little. "Eddie liked me thin," she said. Their tall, attractive, redeyed daughter ate less. She cut up her food and gave it to some stray cats residing at the hotel.

Helene Adamson smiled and said, "I wanted to get Banyon license plates and Ed said it could be embarrassing for me if the series didn't succeed. Now I am going to get them and I'll have them forever."

And so a story that was supposed to reflect the look and feel of a period instead turned into a tribute to a nice man.

TV Provides Surrogate Neighbors

HOLLYWOOD - (NEA) -We're fast becoming a nation of rootless nomads, moving every year or so and gadding about furiously when we're supposedly at home. Vance Packard's fascinating new book, "A Nation of Strangers," digs deeply into the whole area of Americans' restlessness and alienation.

Packard, probably our finest social reporter today, visited Hollywood recently and he said that our entertainment structire-movies and television - has been doing its noble best to foster this new mobility and the anonymous society it has created.

"In the late '60s;" Packard says; "there were pictures like 'Easy Rider' and 'Midnight Cowboy' and 'Five Easy Pieces' which showed certain young people moving around and thereby, I believe, encouraged other young people to do the same.'

Another way in which movies have helped make the world rootless is by showing; throughn newspaper and magazine articles, how movie stares are rootless.

He quotes Richard Burton in his book about the actor's life with his wife Elizabeth Taylor:

'Travel has become to us, as to most itinerant professionals, a part of our lives. We have been forced by habit to become doomed nomads, incapable any more of being sweet stay-athomes. We find nowadays that staying in one place for more than three months is intolerable."

Such statements, Packard believes, subliminally encourage Americans to adopt a similar attitude. Coupled with films which paint the same sad picture; they have helped us to our current state of rootlessness.

In place of the old stability we now have TV togive a continuity to our lives

"TV's families;" Packard says; "have become surrogate real families. TV hosts have become substitute roots.'

He psychoanalyzes Arthur Godfrey's old morning show which, in its heyday, contained a family group built around the patriarchal figure of Godfrey.

But there was never a woman aroungd, never a hint of a matriarch.

"So the ladies at home who watched," Packard says, "visualized themselves in that position. They became matriarchs in their own minds, giving them the roots they didn't have in their real lives.

So we watch TV and all the situation comedy groups and the Cartwrights and the Bonanza bunch becomes our families and our closest friends.

"Television sets," Packard wrote in his book, "provide instant neighbors such as David Frost and Lucille Ball who can be invited in at the flick of a

There's even a TV substitute for the old backyard fence across which our ancestors used to gossip. No such device exists today in what we laughingly call our real life, so TV and radio have stepped into the breach.

They have begun all those programs in which oily-voiced MCs invite a person to call in and say what he thinks, thus simultaneously raising their ratings and letting the public make fools of themselves.

"These programs," Packard writes, "provide the lonely or frustrated with (a place) where they can make themselves heard, pour out their problems, grievances, and prejudices or even their sexual puzzlements and fantasies."

The entertainment world, notably TV, is also providing people with most of their news these rootless days, a sorry development.

"The new mobility," Packard says, "makes people less newspaper readers, since they are no longer much concerned with local news.

"My research provided an interesting sidelight. I was looking for cities in which I could compare the effects of mobility. I found 11 relatively permanent cities, and nine highly mobile ones, all about the same size. In the 11 permanent cities, there were 11 good, solid daily newspapers. But of the nine highly mobile cities, only one had a solid daily."

Ask TV Scout

FUNNY PINKY

What TV series was Pinky Lee in? — J. G., Orlando, Fla.

Lisping burlesque comedian Pinky Lee first appeared in the weekly musical-variety series The Tow of Us with Vivian Blaine. The show ran from '51 to '53 on NBC-TV. In 1953 he starred in The Pinky Lee Show, a daily children's series.

SURFING

What was the movie "The Endless Summer" about? — Julia Burke, Corpus Christi, Tex.

"The Endless Summer" (1966), was a superb documentary on surfing directed by Bruce Brown. The camera followed two young men, Mike Yynson and Robert August, as they surfed around the world in search of every surfer's dream: the perfect wave.

CARTOON TYKE

What was the name of the animated cartoon boy in The Boing Boing Show? — Dick Brown, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

The popular CBS-TV children's cartoon program, The Boing Boing Show, featured cartoon character Gerald McBoing Boing. The show ran from December 1956 to October 1958.

RAIN DISPUTE

We saw "The Rainmaker" on TV recently. I say Joel McCrea was in it but my husband says no. — Mrs. Wixson, Northome, Minn.

Your husband is right. In the cast of this 1956 release were Burt Lancaster, Katharine Hepburn, Wendell Corey, Lloyd Bridges, Earl Holliman, Cameron Prud'homme and Wallace Ford. N. Richard Nash's play about a spinster in a southwestern town was later made into the musical, "110 In The Shade."

FIRST FIRING

I've heard that some people have been fired on camera on TV. Could you tell me who was the first? — Lucy Burger, Miami, Fla.

Television's first on-camera dismissal occurred when Arthur Godfrey fired Julius La Rosa on his variety show called Arthur Godfrey and His Friends.

DIRTY WHAT?

Who always used to say, "I'll be a dirty bird?" — Paul Gerhardt, Chicago, Ill.

"Well, I'll be a dirty bird!" was a phrase coined by George Gobel

GAL ON MANNIX

Could you please give me some information Gail Fisher's career? — H. P., Chicago, Ill.

Gail Fisher (Peggy on Mannix) gave many perforamenes with the Lincoln Center Repertory Group in New York. Between acting assignments she worked as a commercial model. She has appeared in many television shows including Love, American Style, The Defenders and My Three Sons. Miss Fisher is a song lyricist in her spare time and has had her songs recorded by artists such as Nancy Wilson and Cannonball Adderly. In 1970 she won an Emmy Award for her portraval of Mike Connors' secretary in CBS-TV's Mannix adventure

FRENCH GOODIE

Who were the stars of "A Man and A Woman?" — Billy Cooke, Hackettstown, N.J.

The protagonists in this 1966 French release were Jean-Louis Trintignant and Anouk Aimee. Claude Lelouch directed.

FRENCH CARDINAL

Who played the part of Richelieu in the movie "Cardinal Richelieu?" — K. C., Oak Lawn, Ill.

George Arliss played the part of France's unscrupulous cardinal who controlled Louis XIII, played here by Edward Arnold. Also in the cast were Maureen O'Sullivan and Cesar Romero. The film was released in 1935

MAMA'S LONG RUN

My husband and I have a big bet. He says June Allyson was in the movie "I Remember Mama." I say it was Barbara Bel Geddes. — Mrs. Stocko, Portland, Ore.

You win. Others in the case of this excellent 1948 drama were Irene Dunne (as Mama), Oscar Homolka, Philip Dorn and Ellen Corby who was nominted for Best Supporting Actress for her performance. The adventures of the immigrant Norwegian family originated from a novelette by Kathryn Forbes called "Mama's Bank Account." Subsequently came the play, "I Remember Mama," by John Van Druten, then the film. In 1949, CBS-TV made it into a series called Mama with Peggy Wood in the title role and Judson Laire as Papa. Their children were played by Dick Van Patten, Rosemary Rice and Robin Morgan. The show remained on the air until 1957.

FUNNY MONSTERS

Who played The Munsters and what was their son's name?

— Barry H., Northome, Minn.

Herman and Lily Munster were played by Fred Gwynne and Yvonne De Carlo. Butch Patrick played their son Eddie.

WESTERN WITCH

Can you tell me who played the Wicked Witch of the West in "The Wizard of Oz?" — Lola Hudson, Ferndale, Pa.

Margaret Hamilton, currently in a TV coffee commercial, played the witch in this 1939 four-star film. The rest of the well-known cast included the late Judy Garland, Frank Morgan, the late Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Ray Bolger and the late Billie Burke.

I'S TRUE

Who played the werewolf in "I Was A Teenage Werewolf?" — B. K., Terre Haute, Ind.

Michael Landon (Bonanza's Little Joe Cartwright) played the werewolf in this 1957 release. The cast included Yvonne Lime, Whit Bissell, Ken Miller, Malcolm Atterbury and Guy Williams (TV's Zorro).

Dick Van Dyke may not know this yet, but his idyllic days may be drawing to a close. In the high places of CBS, there is a movement afoot to make him film his show in Hollywood, rather than in Carefree, Ariz., where he now shoots.

It's a question of economics. CBS is growing unwilling to shell out for rental of the Arizona studio when they have unused facilities in Hollywood. They are, in effect, paying for two studios and they don't like

Van Dyke has often said that he won't work anyplace except Arizona, so it'll be interesting to see what happens.

There was some curious casting on a recent edition of Night Gallery. Rod Serling's script for an episode called "Rare Objects" described his leading character, Augie Kolodney, as "a big, heavy-torsoed, middle-aged man."

The actor who played the part was Mickey Rooney.

At the premiere of "Cancel My Reservation," held to benefit the Special Olympics Fund for Retarded Children, Bob Hope, the film's star, made a brief speech before the film started. He talked about how this picture was, naturally, Grated, and how he can't make any other kind because of his television image.

"I'd like to make something besides a G picture," Hope said. "But I doubt if I could pass the physical.'

Early in November filming will begin on a major project for CBS movies for TV. Universal will film, mostly in New York, a three-hour long film to be shown as a two-parter dealing with the sensational "career girl" slayings of Janice Wylie and Emily Hoffert in New York several years ago. It was a heinous crime, wellremembered by all who lived in the city at the time.

Abby Mann has written the script and is producing and Joe Sargent will direct. A detective will be the leading character and while nothing is set there is talk of Telly Savalas for the

Helen Hayes, speaking at a luncheon of the Hollywood Women's Press Club (along with Anita Loos, who coauthored a new book with Miss Hayes, "Twice Over Lightly"), says she mourns the days when strong producers disappeared. She said she thinks the industry began going downhill when the directors and actors began to get power. "We need producers to tell us what to do and select good roles for us," she said.

Recalling strong producers led her into a recollection of Irving Thalberg and her first film, "The Sin of Madelyn Claudet."

She said it was premiered in a small theater, while Thalberg was out of town, and it was a fiasco. When he returned he asked about the picture and was told what happened. He looked at it and said the only thing that was wrong was the last scene, which went in the wrong direction. They wrote a new ending and Miss Hayes won an Oscar for her performance.

She recalls "When I won the Oscar, I did all the things they joke about today. I cried and I thanked everybody. Norma Shearer, who had won the preceding year, gave it to me and it was quite an evening. Norma and Irving and Charlie MacArthur and I did quite a bit of celebrating afterwards. The next day, on the set, everyone wanted to see the Oscar I won. so I called Charlie and asked him to bring it over. He couldn't find it. For nearly three months, it was lost. We couldn't remember what we had done with it. Eventually we found it when we opened the trunk of the car Charlie was driving. My dear, drunken husband had put it in the trunk the night I won it and we both forgot about it completely."

Vikki Carr includes a questionand-answer session during her one-nighter concert tours and she gets some beauties. But the best came in Laredo, Tex., when a girl, 8, asked Vikki if it was all right to ask her a personal question. Vikki said, of course, and the child said, "How come you turn my Daddy on like you do?"

Rodney Dangerfield swears his gums hurt as a result of his frequent trips from his New York home to Los Angeles, where he does his regular appearances on The Dean Martin Show Rodney insists when he loses sleep, his gums start to hurt. Gee, some of us just yawn.

More for Less

If you are interested in more than cheaply priced, cheaply made carpets and are looking for carpets that are manufactured to high durability standards, made a little more attractive with extra emphasis on design and color, then Hobsons have your carpet. If you would enjoy shopping for carpet in a store that features professionally designed displays to make your selection easier, such as the 22 carpeted model rooms in our Clinton store, to the array of eight-foot vertical and horizontal carpeted displays in our Sedalia store, if you would enjoy shopping from a vast selection of Brand Name carpetings; and if you want the most competitive prices in the retail carpet business...then Hobsons is your store

One of the "SELECT DOZEN" $ 99

SQ. YD.

A rich 3 toned Wilton textured carpet you can live with in a carefree manner for years. Extravagantly heavier than most... and only Hobsons have it!
